Chamber Endorses School Bond Issue

The Chamber of Commerce Thursday voted unanimously to endorse the bond issue for the proposed eighth and ninth grade school building.

The vote came after Supt. of Schools Sam Harbin discussed the school and why it was necessary.

Harbin said today that the board of education will meet next week to reset the election date from Oct. 31 to some date in November.

Harbin said the board has discovered so many legal technicalities that the election must be postponed.

Harbin told the Chamber that the school, to be built and furnished with a $1-million bond issue, can be financed without raising taxes.

The school district's bond payments will drop about $65,000 at the end of the year, enabling the district to float the bond issue, Harbin said.

Eighth grade students from the junior high school will be sent to the new center, as will freshmen from the high school.

This will help reduce the overcrowding in those schools. Harbin said there are 1,077 students in the Junior high building which was designed to hold 600.

The high school is also overcrowded, but not as badly, Harbin said.

The 46,000- square- foot school will house 900 students with 33 teaching stations, including 22 classrooms and 11 other stations.

The school will take nine to 12 months to build and will be located at the intersection of Virginia and Twitty streets.

Schramm Sees Need For Rural Growth

Missouri should make a strong effort to bring people back to rural areas and away from the cities, Jack Schramm, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, said today.

Schramm said not all of the problems in the state are found in the congested urban areas.

"Many of our small cities are dying. Small farmers struggle for survival. People are forced to uproot themselves from places they have lived all their lives to seek employment in the cities.

"We must be as concerned about the health of outstate Missouri as we are about the health of urban areas." We must provide viable alternatives to flight to the cities, particularly for young people," Schramm said.

Schramm called for a rural development agency to help improve conditions for rural businesses, farmers and job seekers.

"We should examine markets to find opportunities for helping small landowners, providing jobs in towns and cities and bringing new income to rural Missouri," Schramm said.

An an example, he cited fish farming.

"Suppose we find fish farming is potentially a very profitable endeavor for small farmers and that there are major market opportunities, a rural development corporation could issue revenue bonds to finance start- up costs and lease equipment to the farmers. The lease payments would retire the bonds," Schramm said.

He said the state would benefit from new industry and new income without taxes. The small farmer would benefit from new business opportunities, increased markets, and the unemployed benefit from new jobs.

Schramm said federal funds for grants and cost-sharing are available through the Rural Development Act of 1972.

"The state should make intelligent use of those funds where we can," he said. "The health of rural Missouri is necessary to the health of the state."

Schramm added he felt the lieutenant governor should be more clearly identified with the administrative branch of government, instead of being thought of as the president of the senate.

Schramm said the office should be used to create "innovative approaches" to government.

Schramm said many people feel the government is not responsive to their needs. He said the government must be more visible, more accountable and more responsible.

Shelton Ruling Set Aside

The finding of guilty of failing to close a tavern on time against Ruth Mac Shelton, 207 St., was set aside and dismissed in City Court Thursday night.

The Shelton woman had been found guilty and fined $20 on the charge in City Court Wednesday.

She is an employe of Lowell Caskey, 918 Allen Blvd., owner of King Arthur Lounge on East Center Street. Caskey also was found guilty of failing to close the tavern by 1:30 a.m. and was fined $110.

Caskey will not have his license to operate the tavern revoked, but was placed on probation for one year.

In other cases before the court:

Ernestine Graham of NewMadrid was fined $110 on charges of petit larceny; warrants were issued for the arrest of Larry Joe Lane, 819 E. Kathleen, after he failed to appear in court on charges of careless and imprudent driving, peace disturbance and no city auto sticker. Jimmy E. Ranney, 234 N. Handy, was fined a total of $155 on charges of driving while intoxicated and three counts of failing to stop at a stop sign; Helen Thelma Clark, 224 Handy, assault and battery, was fined $20.

James Ronnie Jackson, 626 Murray Lane, assault and battery, dismissed; Margaret Morton, 815 Wallace, peace disturbance, fined $35; Richard Lee Johns of Oran, careless and imprudent driving, fined $35; Charles Marion Kaiser, 203 Selma, peace disturbance, forfeited bond of $35.

Milton Perry Brummett of Nashville, Tenn., speeding, was fined 45; Charles Heavener, Route Four, peace disturbance, $30; George Baker Sr., 311 Luther, peace disturbance, forfeited bond of $10; Jack Clemons, 129 Fourth St., escaping custody, forfeited bond of $110, no city sticker, forfeited bond of $11; Arthur Robertson of Jackson, peace disturbance, fined $35; and Marjorie L. Hopgood of East Prairie, careless and imprudent driving, fined $29.

LESS THAN fifty persons were on hand at Malone Park Thursday night to greet Bill Burlison and Rep. Jack Schramm, Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor. Calvin And Dirks Elected By BEDC

MALDEN — Two new officers were elected to the council of the Bootheel Economic Development Commission at Thursday night's meeting at Malden Industrial Park.

Elected vice chairman of the council was John Calvin of Sikeston Route Three. Ron Dirks of Malden was elected secretary - treasurer. Pat Lea of Sikeston is chairman of the council.

A lengthy discussion of the regional solid waste plan ended in approval and adoption of the plan.

U.S. Admits Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today admitted responsibility for the bombing of the French mission in Hanoi, saying it "was inadvertently struck by a U.S. bomb."

The Pentagon issued a brief statement calling the Oct. 11 attack an accident caused either by mechanical failure or a hung bomb.

The head of the mission, Delegate-General Pierre Susini, died of burns in a Paris hospital Thursday night. Five Indochinese employes in the mission also were killed.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said it was likely that the damage was caused by a 500-pound bomb that had fallen from one of two dozen Navy planes from the carrier Midway which were attacking military targets about three miles from the French Legation.

He said the bomb apparently dropped as one of the planes was heading to or coming from its assigned target.

"Obviously this was an accident and not a planned strike," he told reporters.

A hung bomb would mean that one of the 500 or 1,000pound bombs used in the raid failed to drop on the intended target when it was supposed to; instead, after the supersonic jet pulled up and away, the bomb slipped off on a wild course.

Friedheim said because it was an accident no reprimand, recriminations or punishment are planned.

At the outset, Hanoi maintained that it was an American bomb that hit the French mission. While the U.S. Command did not deny this, it also raised the possibility that the damage could have been caused by one of more than a half dozen North Vietnamese surface-toair missiles fired at the American jets. The Command said it did not know and was investigating the cause.

Second Robbery Suspect Arrested

CARUTHERSVILLE — Frances Harris of Sikeston, wanted for the Oct. 14 robbery of Pender Jewelry store in Steele, has been arrested and released to the custody of her parents.

The Harris woman was brought into the Sheriff's office about 10:30 a.m. Thursday by her father, Ida Wallace of Sikeston. Sheriff's deputies said she was released without bond into the custody of her parents because she is a diabetic.

Both the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the highway patrol agreed to release her, deputies said.

One other person, Joe Graves of Rives, has been arrested in the robbery which netted $17,000 worth of jewels.

Two other men, Dale Rose of Sikeston and Bryan Dennis, an ex-convict on parole from California, are being sought for taking part in the robbery.

The Sheriff's office also said that Mary Russell of Hayti, who was shot in the neck at 5 p.m. Wednesday by Robert Miles of Hayti, has refused to press charges. Miles has been released.

Four Injured In Two Area Accidents

Four persons were injured in the only two area traffic accidents reported Thursday, according to the highway patrol.

A three-vehicle accident at 4:20 p.m. on Route NN three miles north of Gobler resulted in injuries to three persons, Beatrice Virginia Taylor, 52, of Gobler, Virginia Cherry, 12, address unknown and Patsy Ruth Sale, 34, of Gideon.

Mrs. Taylor, who was seriously injured, and the Cherry girl were taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett. Mrs. Sale received severe heat cuts and was taken to the Blytheville Air Force Base Hospital.

The accident occurred as the Taylor pickup truck was making a left turn from Route J onto Route NN. Mrs. Sale came up up behind the pickup, applied her brakes, skidded across the center line and struck the left front of the truck. The car then went off the highway and struck a third car parked on the side of the road.

A pedestrian was seriously injured Thursday in an accident at 7:30 p.m. on a gravel road in Brownwood. Roy Williams, 33, of Advance Route Two received multiple fractures and is reported in critical condition in Dexter Memorial Hospital

Civil Air Patrol Helps In Rescue Work

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eighth in a series of articles about the 11 agencies benefiting from this year's United Fund campaign. Today's article deals with the Civil Air Patrol)

By DONNA SATTERFIELD

The Sikeston Civil Air Patrol is allotted $850 from this year's United Fund goal of $46,347.

The Civil Air Patrol was founded in 1941 by a group of patriotic individuals who volunteered their services and their privately owned aircraft to patrol America's coastline and borders.

The patrol today carries on the work of the founders by flying search and rescue missions, cooperating with civil defense agencies at all levels of government and by helping people and communities stricken by floods, hurricanes and other natural disasters.

Sikeston Civil Air Patrol headquarters is located at Sikestor. Memorial Airport in a building that also houses the Army rescue unit and the citizens band radio club. The CAP members own their own radio equipment and a Piper Commanche 250 airplane, which was purchased last year.

The Civil Air Patrol works through the sheriff's office on rescue missions. When a pilot does not appear at his destination flight plan, a red cap mission is called. Searchers plot the course, find out where the pilot was last heard from and fly the pattern at a low altitude.

An example of how the Civil Air Patrol aids the community is the search for the four-year- old boy in Mississippi County lost last month.

From the sheriff's office a call was placed to CAP state headquarters in Kansas City where a search was authorized and a helicopter and pilot sent from Springfield to search for the

PRINCE SIHANOUK
TURNS 50

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the deposed leader of Cambodia, is not living it up as he once did. Instead of playing the saxophone and making home movies, he is leading the active political life of an exile in Peking. Sunday, Oct. 22, will mark his 50th birthday, and Sihanouk says (Newsweek, July 17): "I have come to realize there are other things in life besides trifles, and I have more esteem for myself since I have lived an austere life."

Rather than follow other monarchs into luxurious exile in southern France, Sihanouk has become the head of a revolutionary movement which is fighting the pro-American Cambodian government of Lon Nol. Indeed, the success of the Cambodian Liberation Front makes it increasingly likely that Sihanouk will be able to return to his country someday. The prince claims that his liberation army, which controls most of Cambodia, currently fields 60,000 troops augmented by a 100,000-man militia. It could be that two of Sihanouk's old avocations -- playing Monopoly and war games -- are now paying unexpected dividends.

Sihanouk came to the throne in 1941, when he was only 18 years old. At first, by his own admission, he led the life of a playboy. Later on, he played a key role in ridding the country of French domination. Then, in March 1955, Sihanouk abdicated and announced the formation of the Sangkum Reastr Niyum, or Popular Socialist Community. In September of that year, he was elected premier. Sihanouk proceeded to infuriate the United States by refusing to join the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and by his adherence to a strictly neutralist foreign policy.

Sihanouk now addresses the Cambodian people by way of Peking radio once every 10 days. According to all reports, he remains popular with the peasantry. He admits that his administration was "folklorique" and harbors few illusions about the future. No Communist himself, he nevertheless believes that the political coloration of the entire Indochinese peninsula is destined to be some shade of red. As for the United States, he says (The Times of London, Sept. 17): "The Americans could not understand that, precisely because I am not a Thieu, but a true patroit, I was the only hope for stability."

McG FIGURES "ODDS'
FOR HIM

Every little bit helps in an election campaign, too. Thus a group called Americans Abroad for McGovern is trying to enlist the draft-dodger vote in Canada, reports the National Observer.

That would amount to about 10,000 votes. The group is also wooing the non-draft- dodging American vote in Canada and hopes to win about 75 per cent of it. (According to the State Department, some 250,000 U.S. citizens are living and working north of the border.)

As for the draft dodgers, apparently all they have to do is swear that they intend to return to the United States some day to live in order to qualify for absentee ballots. The biggest job facing McGovern workers in Canada is convincing the expatriates they won't be arrested if they apply at a U. S. consulate.

Otherwise, they figure their candidate "will inevitably" get the draft-dodger vote, says the Observer.

It's not exactly something to crow about.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things that make life worth living:

The relieved smile of a tearful child after you pluck a splinter from its foot without pain. Pulling cockleburrs out of a dog's coat. Breaking snap beans for a big family Thanksgiving dinner.

The opening of a bud. The soft closing of a door after you kiss goodnight the one you love.

Seeing your face get back to normal after the mumps. Holding a milk bottle to your ear to see if it will echo the sea's murmur as a seashell does.

Watching a Handy Andy wife wallpaper a room all by herself.

The elation of learning that you're going to be a father for the first time, and then the slight deflation of realizing that probably 20 billion other men have had that feeling before you. Well, so hurrah for them, too — each man in his time.

Squishing cool river bottom mud between your toes on a hot July day. Urging your best girl to go wading in a cold mountain stream.

Falling asleep to the timeless feathered thunder of the surf. Waking in the night drowsily when rain spatters on the roof of a cabin in the woods.

Pinning a baby's diaper without pinning either the baby or one of your fingers.

The wet summons of a waterfall.

Learning to make your knuckles pop. Learning to make a fire without matches. Learning how to whistle through your front teeth. Learning the alphabet backward. Learning that Rome wasn't built in a day. Learning that love has many lessons, not just one, and sometimes makes you want to cry.

An unseen jet plane scarring the sky with vapor trails — the eerie signature of the invisible machine.

Holding up your arm in a new class when the teacher finally asks a question you can answer. Holding up a piece of smoked glass so you can stare at an eclipse. Holding on to a rope successfully in a tug-ofwar contest. Holding hands with a girl on the way home from church. Holding up your baby sister to look at a store window full of playing puppies. Holding on to a job you can't afford to lose.

The sight of a great white snowfall covering the ugliness of a great grimy city.

The song of an unknown bird, half-heard all alone at twilight in a dim and darkening forest.

For these and other benisons of being, we thank Thee, Amen.

UNFAIR ATTACK

As a supporter of the soft drink tax proposal which would have financed a program of improvement by the State Conservation Commission, we regret that the recent petition efforts failed to qualify for a place on the ballot this November.

We also regret the attacks which some supporters of the measure have leveled at Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick simply because he was true to his oath of office in rejecting the petition because it did not contain the enacting clause required by the Missouri Constitution.

Kirkpatrick was doing what he had sworn he would do — uphold the Constitution of the State of Missouri. We admire him for doing his duty even when he knew this might hurt him.

The irony of the whole flap is that even if Kirkpatrick had not rejected the petition, you can bet the forces opposing it would have obtained a court ruling against putting it on the ballot. Such a ruling came from the Missouri Supreme Court which held that the Secretary of State had acted correctly.

Thus, Kirkpatrick should need no further defense of his position. But this is an election year. Elections, sometimes defy logic. And the needless attacks on Kirkpatrick may have damaged him in the eyes of supporters of the soft drink tax proposal.

We have known Jim Kirkpatrick for many years, both as a fellow newspaperman and an outstanding public official. Through those years he has been a supporter of conservation. He is also a man who firmly believes in the right of citizens to petition their government. His ethics and character have stood up under the most glaring spotlight of all — public scrutiny of him as an elected official of the State of Missouri.

It is most unfair that there should be this attempt to flaw him for doing what every citizen has a right to expect him to do— his duty as an elected official.

We believe that if a soft drink tax for conservation purposes is to have a chance in the future the supporters who have attacked Kirkpatrick should stand up and admit they made a mistake. Otherwise questions may arise as to their ethics— and possibly as to the proposal itself.

—The Clinton Daily Democrat

THE MEN AROUND HIM

Now comes still further evidence of a direction connection between the White House and efforts to subvert the Democratic presidential campaign. According to TIME, two White House aids, Dwight L. Chapin and Gordon Strachan, arranged the hiring of a young lawyer named Donald H. Segretti who roamed the country attempting to recruit saboteurs and undercover agents to work against Democratic candidates. Messrs. Chapin and Strachan, of course, are merely two members of what appears to be a growing cast of characters in this unsavory melodrama. In alphabetical order here are some of the others and their alleged roles:

KEN W. CLAWSON, White House deputy communications director, author of a fake letter about Senator Muskie; CHARLES COLSON, presidential counsel, sponsor of E. Howard Hunt who was indicted in the Watergate break-in; HUNT, former presidential aid, see Colson above; ROBERT C. MARDIAN, former Justice Department official who after joining the Republican campaign office sought confidential information about Democrats from Justice files; JOHN N. MITCHELL, who as Attroney General controlled a secret espionage fund in the office of Republican finance chariman Maurice Stans; STANS, former Secretary of Commerce who cannot explain how $114,000 in Nixon campaign funds arrived in the bank account of one of the men arrested in the Wategate; WILLIAM TIMMONS, White House aid, recipient of logs from wiretaps on Democratic National Headquarter telephones.

That, we submit, is quite a list and it says a good deal about the character and caliber of the men whom the President not only has entrusted to run his re-election campaign but also to high national office. It also says something about the character of a President who apparently sees nothing improper about surrounding himself with assistants who see their highest calling not as officials to serve the public but as agents to secure by whatever means possible his re-election.

BEWARE OF
SIR ORACLE

Numerous novels have been written about the dreadful fate that overtakes a nation when it succumbs to the mediocrity and repression of Big Brother government. None was more vivid in its presentation of the disintegration of a government controlled society than "Atlas Shrugged," by Ryn Rand. The utter stagnation and collapse of industries caught in the paralyzing tentacles of a mindless bureaucracy seemed, a few years ago, too fanciful to accept as a genuine real life possibility for the United States. But, in considering the political web of restraint that is being woven around the U. S. prescription drug industry, the conclusion is inescapable that the nightmare portrayed in "Atlas Shrugged" is, not only possible, but quite probable.

The government is now undertaking to tell over 200 million people, as well as tens of thousands of doctors, scientists and laboratory technicians, exactly which medicinal compounds are effective in the treatment of illness and which are not. Prohibitive decrees are issued against those considered ineffective by a Washington administrator. The question of safety is beside the point. There is even an impending efficacy rating system to be applied to the labeling of thousands of drugs. Regardless of clinical experience in actual practice, all drug labeling and advertising is to carry the officially decreed efficacy rating as applied to each drug upon which official judgment has been passed.

One study has revealed that lengthy and rigid requirements for meeting proof of efficacy will result in scientific and medical resources being diverted from more important long-range research. The study also warns that regulations have retreated from the reasonable to the unreasonable and from the generally practical to the loftily academic. As columnist James J. Kilpatrick comments, "This is autocratic rule -- the rule of Sir Oracle; and the effect is not to benefit American medicine. The effect is rather to inhibit that freedom of clinical experience which lies at the heart of good medical practice."

SURRENDERING CONTROL OVER OUR MONEY

The world monetary agreement currently being proposed by Treasury Secretary George Shultz would, if put into effect, destroy the dollar as an independent currency. The agreement would give full control of the value of the dollar, as well as that of all free world currencies, to a small financial elite.

Under the proposed plan, a few international bankers and high government officials would be empowered to set the value of all paper currencies in the world, to keep these currencies from being converted into gold and to enforce their decisions by treaty authority.

Under such a plan, those in power would almost certainly manipulate the value of the currencies to their own profit and advantage. The average man, in the United States and other countries, would not be considered.

Already most people in our country suffer from the uncertainities caused by inflation. Retired people are especially hurt by the declining value of the dollar because the savings they worked hard to accumulate are worth less and less. This new plan would remove the last remaining effective restraints on inflation.

The plan is justified as a means of lessening our balance of payments deficit. Yet even Secretary Shultz admits that this deficit is primarily due to our gigantic outlay of foreign aid since World War II. The obvious solution to the balance of payments deficit is to cut our foreign economic aid. Turning over control of our money to international financiers would only make U.S. economic problems worse than they already are. HLH

Friend of the 'Families': Mafia Dragnet Exposes Hoff's Old Allies

NEW YORK — Soon Jimmy Hoffa will be able to push for prison reform for some of his closest friends and friends of those close friends. For it was their Brooklyn junkyard trailer Mafia headquarters which was the center of the most massive organized crime dragnet ever spread.

This is a significant, untold part of the story of last Monday's nation-shaking bust of crime syndicate families by 1,200 police.

The blue-gray, 40-by-15-foot posh trailer was run by a relatively newly made cappo, virtually unknown until Monday, Paul Vario, head of the toughest, biggest "crew" in the Thomas (Three Finger Brown) Luchese family--the very same underworld unit which in the mid-'50s had a game plan of its own for grabbing control of much of American labor.

Had the Luchese family succeeded it would have combined a multi-million-dollar industrial, trucking, land developing, commercial, entertainment, real estate, nightclub and hotel and motel and recketeering ((shylocking, hijacking, etc.) empire with inestimable union power.

For this is the family which Johnny "Dio" Dioguardi, to whom Hoffa once offered any job in the Teamsters he wished, and his boss, Tony "Ducks" Corallo, would have headed if they had not been imprisoned. They had hoped and planned to make the Teamsters Brotherhood-- through an alliance with Hoffa--the base of their reach for labor power. For years Jimmy and Johnny were intimate associates socially and professionally.

But back to the trailer--which was not, as has been reported, the summit headquarters of the metropolitan area's five bloody Mafia groups-- but the payoff and planning center of Vario who was and may still be on his way to the summit as boss of bosses.

During the night of April 1 or 2, several trusted New York City police jimmied open the 14-foot-high steel and barbed wire fence around the now-famous Canarsie junkyard.

These cops had covered most of their plain clother with pads--which ran up and down their feet, legs, chest, hands, and helped protect their faces as well. Thus they prepared to meet the two savagely trained German shepherd watchdogs. The animals attacked ferociously. The police wrestled with the beasts, subdued them with tranquilizer- injected meat, and slipped into the trailer.

This can now be reported. Then they put the Micro-sync-25 electronic "bug" into a ceiling opening and slipped out past the sleeping dogs.

For six and a half months, Brooklyn District Attorney Eugene Gold and his racket squad and the truly redoubtable Capt. John Nevins, commander of these racket bureau police, listened to 1.6 million feet of eavesdropping tape of conversations within the trailer.

There were 45 cops involved. These men turned a corner in world police work--the story never leaked. Not to the Mafia or the media. Thus the 677 caught in the dragnet were surprised.

There are crooked cops involved. Some of them have taken bribes as high as $25,000. There will be a series of arrests.

But the story is that the name of Paul Vario, the Luchese family's toughest cappo, was unknown-- and he was taking his orders from Johnny Dio's acid tongue. The Luchese boss was and is Carmine (Mr. Gribbs) Tramunti, who has been exposed in this column for almost 10 years.

Tramunti and Vario were in an interlocking network of legitimate and crooked businesses. The trailer headquarter's electronic and telephone tapes reveal that some of the men who came to do business with Vario talked of murder, cracking heads, breaking arms -- making a "hit" to keep discipline.

But it does romanticize the fantastic development-- which will shake the Mafia, send its people scurrying abroad--to accept reports that the heads of the five crime families visited the junkyard. If any of the Colombo family came, he was insignificant. And none came of the stature of boss of Bosses Carlo Gambino.

This was the Luchese trailer--and from it ran corrupt lines. The late Three Finger Brown had his hand deep in national and municipal politics. He once planted his own Mafioso in the office of the U. S. Attorney for the Southern District of New York--and made at least one police commissioner.

He was succeeded by the pallid Tramunti only after others had been eliminated by the Federals. He dominated the powerful and notorious Laborers' Local 13 which made millions from construction at the 1964 World's Fair (Queens).

The 62-year-old Tramunti has a long record of 15 arrests and 6 convictions -- and always a buddy and a onetime bodyguard of Johnny Dio, the extortioner now in a Federal penitentiary.

Tramunti and Dio also reached across the nation. They had the protection of the truly aged Don Michele Moranda, allegedly the most respected member of the underworld's nine-man National Commission.

So Tramunti might have gone far, inside legitimate business, commerce and labor, had he not been caught up in the junkyard--on omen of his future.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- A device that would cut the homeowners' gas bills by 20 to 30 per cent has been kept off the market by the American Gas Association.

The fuel saver, known as Vent- O- Matic, is an automatic damper which can be attached in the flue of a gas furnace. It has been approved by the Canadian Gas Association, which tested the device and found it safe.

But the AGA, after four years of stalling, still hasn't even started the testing. As a practical matter, no gas furnace fixture can be marketed and installed until it has been tested and approved by the AGA, because contractors won't use it.

The AGA, of course, is formed by the gas industry which would like to increase, not decrease, the homeowners' gas bills. The association was hardly enthisiastic, therefore, about the Vent- O- Matic fuel saver when it was submitted for testing back in 1968.

Routine tests were run on three basic types of furnaces. The damper was found to be safe and the proper certificates were issued. But AGA withheld general approval on the grounds that no specific standards existed for the Vent— O— Matic device and offered to test it on any furnace submitted. But the purchase price of all the types of furnaces in use would have cost several million dollars. The manufacturer asked that standards be drawn up instead.

The matter was turned over to AGA's approval committee, known as Z21. Finally, in 1971, the committee got around to authorizing a task force to test the Vent— O— Matic damper and write the standards. But a year later, no task force had been established. Last April, the Z21 committee reauthorized the task force. But still nothing has happened.

The AGA claims it can't get anyone to chair the task force. But the association refused to tell us who had turned down the chairmanship and how many people had been approached. My reporter Ken Fisher could locate only two people who had been offered the job. One was a California gas company official who said he declined because his company couldn't benefit from the device. The other, a Boston fire protection official, said he lacked the expertise.

After spending weeks talking to dozens of people familiar with the facts, we have concluded that the AGA is deliberately stalling. An ACA spokesman explained that it takes time to test a new device to make sure it is safe. But the AGA hasn't even set up a testing committee to begin the tests.

Homeowners, meanwhile, continue to pay for gas that the device could save.

Nixon Celebration-- So confident is the White House of victory in November that top aides have been asked to keep a Christmas date free for a gala victory celebration with President Nixon at San Clemente, Calif. The President's confidence has not been shaken by the Watergate affair, Soviet wheat deal, ITT case and other scandals. He told visitors privately that he was distressed over the scandals but didn't think they would hurt him on election day. They were too complicated, he said, for the public to understand. He also said that the public memory on government scandals was short. He suggested that the voters have already forgotten, for example, what the ITT scandal was all about.

Burger's Dissembling-- With his white pompadour and solemn demeanor, Chief Justice Warren Burger looks as if he had been cast for the part by Hollywood. But if he looks like a chief justice ought to look, he doesn't always behave as a chief justice should behave. We caught him, for example, meddling improperly in the legislative process. He sent Rowland Kirks, the chief administrator of the federal courts, to lobby with Speaker Carl Albert against certain provisions of the safe products bill. Lawyer- lobbyist Thomas Corcoran, who accompanied Kirks to the Speaker's office, told us Kirks acted as Burger's representative. Corcoran and Kirks presented to the Speaker arguments that Burger had made four days earlier before the American Bar Association. Now Burger, in a letter to the Speaker, has denied his role in the lobbying mission. "Any responsible person who wanted to secure the facts," he wrote, "could have secured them from me." The truth is that we made repeated attempts to get a comment from Burger. After our column appeared, half a dozen Supreme Court correspondents jointly submitted several written questions to Burger. He still hasn't responded.

Porpoise Slaughter-- A few years ago, commercial tuna fishermen discovered schools of yellow- finned tuna could often be found beneath schools of porpoises. So the fishermen began encircling the entire mass of fish with nets. They brought in the harmless, people- loving porpoises along with the tuna. The porpoises, being air- breathing mammals, would get entangled in the nets and would drown. Their carcasses simply would be discarded. Conservationists claim thousands of porpoises are killed every day. Tuna fishermen, naturally, say the daily kill runs "only in the hundreds." Environmentalists argue that there should be an immediate moritorium on porpoise kills. Others say such a ban would force tuna fishermen to register their boats under foreign flags and take their business elsewhere. Congress has now passed a law which permits tuna fishermen to continue their current techniques for two years while scientists engage in federally- funded research on the problem. For a generation of Americans brought up on the adventures of Flipper, however, two years is a long, long time.

Nixon Signs Revenue Bill In Philadelphia Ceremony

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon flew to Philadelphia today to sign a revolutionary $30.2 billion revenuesharing bill in the nation's birthplace.

The chief executive left the White House South Lawn by helicopter at 11:21 a.m. EDT for the ceremony to place into effect the legislation he proposed two years ago.

Meanwhile, in Philadelphia before Nixon left Washington, 18 antiwar protesters were arrested as they set up an early protest of Nixon's planned visit. The demonstrators had gathered Thursay night and those arrested refused to move their demonstration into a designated area.

The measure, pushed through in the final days of the 92nd Congress, is a cornerstone in Nixon's proposed "new-federalism program," which he says aims to return some of the power, responsibilities and revenue from the federal government to the people.

For the occasion, the President chose Independence Hall, the spot where the founding fathers drew up the Constitution.

The White House invited some 200 guests—governors, mayors and congressmen who helped make revenue sharing a reality—and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who was a scheduled speaker.

Under the new law, the government will pump up to $6.4 billion annually over the next five years to states, cities and communities.

The funds can be spent, virtually without restriction, for high-priority projects such as welfare and social services, public safety and public transportation, health and environmental cleanup.

The allocation for 1972 is $5.3 billion.

The Treasury Department said the first checks, retroactive payments for the first six months of this year, will be mailed out in the first week of December providing an early Christmas present for some 38,000 localities. They will get final payments on this year's revenue sharing sometime early in 1973.

Under the program, funds are allocated one-third to states, two-thirds to subordinate governments. The amount each locality gets is based on a complicated formula involving population, its tax-raising effort and need, as measured by percapita income.

Hearnes At Bill Signing

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes was in Philadelphia today to participate in ceremonies marking President Nixon's signing of the federal revenue sharing bill.

Hearnes, a Democrat, and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, a Republican, were picked to represent the nation's governors. Both were early advocates of revenue sharing.

Under the bill, Missouri state government will receive $33 million and cities and counties will get $65.8 million.

Cooperation between the two major political parties helped to bring about revenue sharing, Hearnes said in a statement prepared for the noon ceremoney.

"My first real involvment with revenue sharing came in 1965, at the National Governor's Conference," Hearnes said. "I joined Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney, who then was governor of Michigan, in co-sponsoring the first significant resolution on revenue sharing every adopted by the nation's governors.

"A Democrat and a Republican, the two of us looked at this topic not as a partisan matter — but as a tool of government which had the potential to help our respective states.

"That resolution we co-sponsored, by the way, was entitled 'Preserving the People's Rights.' I am pleased to see that many more Democrats and Republicans — mayors, governors and congressmen — have joined hands with the same goal in mind.

The proclamations noted that 700,000 Missourians have served in the nation's armed forces.

Trial Date Set For Nonsupport Case In Benton

BENTON — Trial of Kirby Holt on nonsupport charges was set for Nov. 24 in Circuit Court Tuesday by Judge Marshall Craig.

Tial was also set for Nov. 24 for Louis Stidham in another nonsupport case.

Case was dismissed on motion of plaintiff Lee Foehand, who had brought suit against Universal Life Insurance Co. to recover medical expenses.

Trial was set for Nov. 30 of a suit by John Deere Company of Delaware against Holmer True and Joe True. The suit charges they failed to pay a promissory note of $1,523.07 to John Deere Company.

Arrest 3

Police today announced three arrests.

James F. Rodgers, 296 Jaycee, was charged with driving while intoxicated and no city sticker. Murtle M. Jones, 302 Heath, was cited for careless and imprudent driving, and Dorothy Burton, 118 Cardinal Drive, for peace disturbance and trespassing.

Thieu- Kissinger May Be Discussing Cease-Fire Move

SAIGON (AP)— Henry A. Kissinger and President Nguyen Van Thieu conferred for nearly four hours today amid reports that a partial cease- fire was being discussed.

It was the third meeting in two days between President Nixon's chief foreign policy adviser and the leader of the Saigon government.

There was no immediate word on Kissinger's next move, but some sources indicated he would remain in Saigon at least through Saturday and most likely would see Thieu again.

Kissinger was accompanied to the meeting today by U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, Deputy Ambassador Charles S. Whitehouse and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U.S. Army chief of staff.

South Vietnamese sources who reported that a cease-fire proposal was figuring in the talks said it probably called for only a partial truce as a "good will" gesture that could lead to further agreements.

"It is impossible to have any cease- fire that could be enforced, even by international body," said one South Vietnamese official. "It might mean an end to bombing and mining of the North and perhaps an exchange of prisoners, but it would be impossible to guarantee any kind of a cease- fire in the South where the fighting is going on."

The chief stumbling block to a cease- fire agreement has been Thieu's rejection of the Communist condition that he resign and give way to a three- faction coalition government including the Communists.

There has been widespread speculation that Kissinger is trying to persuade Thieu to step down, and the South Vietnamese information ministry in a communique Thursday said the president had renewed his vow "never to accept" a coalition regime.

A number of Thieu's political opponents refused an invitation to meet with him Thursday night to discuss the current status of the peace effort.

"Many of us feel that Thieu is trying to create a myth about opposition to a tripartite government proposal," said one political foe of the president. "We feel he is only pretending to ask for opinions to strengthen his position. We are not willing to be used for such propaganda, so we have refused to meet with him."

The State Department disclosed Thursday night that a veteran of the Paris peace talks and of the U.S. Embassy in Saigon, Philip A. Habib, arrived in Saigon on Wednesday to consult with Kissinger. Now ambassador to South Korea, he was a member of the U.S. team in Paris from the start of the talks in 1968 until 1971.

Box Stolen

NEW MADRID — A coin box on a soft drink machine outside the Fina Self Service Station on Highway 61 was reported stolen Thursday night, according to Marshal O. E. Householder.

Householder said little money was in the box, since it had been emptied Thursday morning by the owner.

Station Robbed

BLOOMFIELD — The Standard service station on Highway 25 in Bloomfield was robbed Thursday night at approximately at 9:30 p.m. Steve Underwood, an attendant, said three men took $95 from the cash register and fled in an old white car.

Two of the men took the money while Underwood was diverted by the third man in the grease room.

Stoddard County sheriff's department is investigating.

The owner of the station is Melvin Williams.

One Arrest

EAST PRAIRIE-- One arrest was reported Thursday by the police department.

Freddie Organ of East Prairie was fined $20 this morning on a charge of public intoxication.

MU Receives Grant For Medical Students

COLUMBIA— The University of Missouri-Columbia School of Medicine has received special project grants totaling more than $200,000 to expand training of medical students in family medical care.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare last week announced 19 grants to U.S. medical schools.

The Comprehensive Health Manpower Training Act of 1971 authorized grants to schools of medicine and osteopathy to enable medical students to receive part of their education under a preceptor in family practice, pediatrics or internal medicine, in rural and other areas of deficient in medical services.

Under the direction of Dr. A. Sherwood Baker, chairman of the department of community health and medical practice at UMC, all third and fourth year medical students serve a four- week preceptorship in a family practice setting. This program was established in Missouri in 1957.

About 100 practicing Missouri physicians, most in small communities, participate in this teaching and training program. Each student spends a month with a preceptor working in his office, making hospital rounds and house calls with him, and participating in the community life.

In addition to a $50,260 grant to the preceptorship program, UMC also received a special project grant for expansion of its family medicine training program.

Three grants were awarded in this category: $145,870 to the University of Missouri; $83,455 to the University of Minnesota; and $74,787 to Penn State.

Dr. Jack M. Colwill, director of the family medical care program at UMC, said these funds will allow additional faculty members to be recruited.

The program, currently in developmental phases, is the training ground for young physicians specializing in family medicine. Resident physicians specializing in internal medicine also participate in the program.

Established at the Medical Center last year, the program was expanded this fall to offer continuing care for families in the Columbia area. Around- the- clock medical care is offered on a fee- for- service basis.

"Grant funds will assist in rapidly enlarging the program which is geared to education of more primary care physicians for Missouri," Dr. Colwill said.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Albert Enderle

Enderle- Fodge

NEW HAMBURG — St. Lawrence Catholic Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Glenda Kay Fodge and Randy Albert Enderle Oct. 7 at 1 p.m.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Francis P. Donovan.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Fodge of Benton Route One. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Feliz Enderle of New Hamburg.

Mrs. Wallace Alden was soloist, accompanied by Karen Brucker on the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of ivory delustered satin and satin sheer. The empire waist and square collar were trimmed with Venice lace. The wide stripes of Venice lace formed the bells on the full sheer sleeves. The train of ivory delustered satin and satin sheer stripe was trimmed with Venice lace and was attached at the back by a large bow.

Her headpiece was a large bow of ivory satin accented with pearls. Attached was a three-tiered veil of silk illusion.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, accented with red rose buds, green leaves with streamers of love knots and a tiny red rosebud attached to each knot.

Miss Rita Fodge, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of red velvet. The high neckline and short, puffed sleeves were trimmed with white lace. Her hairpiece consisted of two white roses with red rosebuds and tied with white, satin ribbons, forming long streamers with red rose buds tied to each one. She carried a long-stemmed red rose tied with white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Donna Tippy, sister of the bride, and Miss Sharon Enderle, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. They wore dresses identical to the maid of honor.

Marty Steimle was best man. Randy Tippy, brother-in-law of the bride, and Glen Griffin were groomsmen. Ushers were Mike Fodge, brother of the bride, and Mike Dirnberger.

Mrs. Fodge chose for her daughter's wedding a blue and white, double-knit, street-length dress with a matching, dress-length vest.

The groom's mother wore a purple, double-knit, street-length dress with a co-ordinated dress-length vest. Both mothers wore corsages of white roses accented with red rosebuds.

Miss Cindy Enderle and Miss Beth King were in charge of the guest book.

A reception and dinner were held in the fellowship hall, followed by a dance.

The couple is making its home in New Hamburg, where the groom is engaged in farming with his father.

Ann Landers

Leave Fires To Fireman

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing this during my break at work. I'm a waitress. Several girls are standing around telling me to be sure and send this because they want to know your answer.

Here's the situation:

A large party comes in, ten or twelve people. The check is a big one-- drinks before dinner, and wine. A man whispers in my ear, "Give me the check." As I serve the coffee a second man pulls me aside and says, "I want the check." I tell him the other man asked first. He says, "Under no conditions should you give the check to him. I want it."

What am I supposed to do? I'm in trouble either way. I've tried dropping the check in the middle of the table but then they both get mad at me. So what's the answer?--- Torn Two Ways

Dear Torn: When a gentleman asks for the check at the beginning of the meal, that should settle it. Anyone who asks after that should be told, "I'm sorry, but the check has already been spoken for and I promised to respect that gentleman's wishes." If he argues, say, "Sorry but you'll have to take it up with the other gentleman."

Dear Ann Landers: I am a fireman who just returned from answering a call. I am tired, angry, and I hurt all over. I feel I must write to you now because one of my buddies is in the hospital with his teeth knocked out and his nose and jaw broken. Why? Because some stupid motorist got impatient and ran over the fire hose that was lying across the street.

If this doesn't make sense to you, let me explain. The sudden burst of pressure knocked the hose out of his hand and it hit him in the face. If you still don't get it, imagine holding a limp garden hose and someone suddenly turning it on--- and remember that the pressure of a fire hose is about 100 times more powerful than a garden hose. Now you know why my buddy is in the hospital.

Here are some rules for the average citizen to follow and I hope to God you will print them in your column. :

If you must follow a fire truck, stay at least 300 feet behind.

Never ask a fireman if you can help. The average person knows nothing about fire fighting. You can help best by staying out of the way.

Never run over a fire hose even if you are sure the water has been turned off.

Do not call the fire department to put out small fires of weeds, trash and little conflagrations that you can extinguish yourself. Such calls are as much a nuisance as false alarms.

When calling the fire department, keep calm and tell them what kind of fire it is so they'll know what to expect and whether to notify other fire fighters.

Teach your small children how to report a fire. Always have the phone number handy, by the telephone.

When your place of business is being inspected and you are told to make certain changes, don't think they are trying to hassle you. Spend the money and make the changes. It could be a matter of life and death.

Thanks a million, Ann. You've done your good deed for today.—— Weary and Beat

Dear Friend: And you've done yours. Thanks for writing and God bless you and your thousands of colleagues for risking your lives every day of the year for me and millions of other strangers.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism—— Hope And Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to this newspaper.

SeMo Enrolls 7,345

CAPE GIRARDEAU— Southeast Missouri State University reports a total enrollment of 7,345 for the fall semester.

Registrar Alton Bray said the figure includes those enrolled at the university on a part- time basis. He said the full- time equated enrollment (FTE) for the fall term is 6,580.

The FTE figure is arrived at by adding up the number of semester hours being taken by part- time students and dividing by nine for graduate students and 12 for undergraduate students. Nine semester hours is considered a full- load for graduate students and 12 a full- load for undergraduates.

Both "head count" and FTE figures for this fall are slightly lower this year than last. A year ago, the university's total enrollment was 7,554 and the FTE figure was 6,798.

The decline this fall is common around the state, according to several Southeast Missouri State officials who reported knowing of only one or two institutions which experienced a slight gain in enrollment.

U.S. Government Agency For Colorful Birth Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is sending millions of condoms in many colors to Asia and Africa in the expectation the unusual nature of the birth-control devices will spark new interest in their use.

Besides red, white and blue, the U.S. Agency for International Development is providing the prophylactics in black, green and pink in packages bearing a legend inviting the user to "embark on a new adventure."

Dr. R.T. Ravenholt, AID's director of the Office of Population, says the use of colored condoms is neither frivolous nor an attempt at being cute, but a serious attempt to promote birth control in the highpopulation areas of the world.

"While the pill remains the most powerful birth-control device available and one that will be used increasingly," Ravenholt said, "there are serious cultural and practical obstacles to its use."

These include rudimentary medical and distribution systems in some of the underdeveloped countries, he explained. Condoms, on the other hand, are easy to use and generally accepted by most societies.

AID has distributed the traditional gray condom for several years, but with only lackluster reception. So, when the colored variety came on the market during the summer the agency decided to run a test program.

American missions were sent supplies of the new prophylactics and Ravenholt reported the distribution in those countries brought an enthusiastic response.

He said a recent trip he made to the Orient showed foreign officials "much more interested in the colored condoms than the gray ones. You could see the interest in their faces," he said, "when they saw the many colors. The displays brought smiles and requests for some samples."

The "diffusion power of the new types is much more effective," he went on, "because they tend to relax old inhibitions in ways the other devices do not."

The cost to the U.S. government is $3.02 per gross, or about the same as for the old type, Ravenholt said. While the figures are incomplete, he estimated 14.4 million of the colored condoms have been purchased, with the totals to increase substantially in the future.

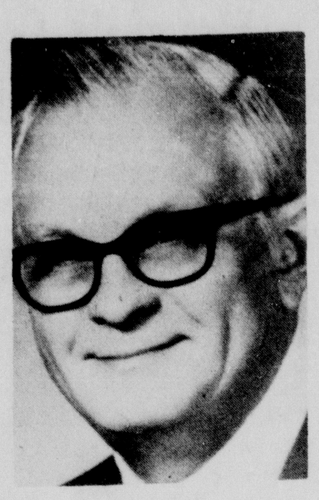
Top Assembly Of God Officer To Speak Here

The Rev. Thomas F. Zimmerman of Springfield, general superintendent of the Assemblies of God, will be guest speaker Sunday at the Annual Homecoming and Pastor's Seventh Anniversary services in First Assembly of God at 306 S. Kingshighway, according to the Rev. T.A. McDonough, pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Zimmerman has been top executive of the 8,799- church group since 1960. He is also chairman of the executive committee of Key 73, a transdenominational evangelism effort set for 1973 involving approximately 100 denominations.



Rev. Thomas Zimmerman

The Rev. Mr. Zimmerman is currently leading the Assemblies of God in a five-year Plan of Advance, which began in 1969. The 1972 phase of the plan, called "Impact '72-- Be Filled with the Spirit" emphasizes the importance of the person and work of the Holy Spirit in individual and church life.

"A recognition of the ministry and manifestation of the Holy Spirit is vital if the Church is to fulfill its mission. It is not an option that the Church may reject or accept as it chooses," the Rev. Mr. Zimmerman believes.

The Assemblies of God executive began his ministry as an assistant pastor in Indianapolis, Ind. He later served pastorates in Illinois, Ohio and Missouri and held district administrative posts for several years before being elected to national office.

In addition to his work with the Assemblies of God, the Rev. Mr. Zimmerman is chairman of the advisory committee for the Pentecostal World Conference, which represents some 20 million Pentecostal believers around the world.

The Conference meets triennially, with the next meeting scheduled for Seoul, Korea, in 1973. He is also an officer in the Pentecostal Fellowship of North America, as association of 20 Pentecostal groups in the United States and Canada.

He serves on executive and administrative boards of the National Associational of Evangelicals, and is first vice president of the National Religious Broadcasters Association. He is a member of the board of managers of the American Bible Society. He holds a doctor of divinity degree from Northwest College, Kirkland, Wash.

Bejeweled Breastplate

There were 12 precious stones in the jeweled breastplate worn by Aaron, the high priest of the Hebrews. In the New Testament, these stones became the foundation stones of the New Jerusalem described in Revelations. Each stone was identified with a prophet.

School Danger Cited

ST. LOUIS (AP) — There will be no Catholic schools by the late 1980's if enrollment continues to decline at the present rate, Bishop William E. McManus, chairman of the United State Catholic Conference, said here Wednesday night.

Every Catholic school should have by 1974 a task force of administrators, faculty, parents and students to plan curriculum improvements, Bishop McManus told a group of 3,000 teachers who attended a conference of St. Louis Archiocesan teachers.

Bishop McManus, who is the education director for the Chicago Archdiocese, said Catholic schools should impress on those who use them the value of Catholic education and parents should be directly involved in the educational process.

Sixty Witnesses Attend Convention

A delegation of 60 Sikeston area residents were among the 2,215 persons who attended a convention of Jehovah's Witnesses Oct. 14-15 at Flat River.

Russell Knauer, presiding minister of the Sikeston congregation said, "The convention was a success in that all in attendance received further aid to continue living Christian lives at a time when the world of mankind seems to be loosing its grips on moral restraint."

On Saturday of the convention, 61 delegates who had completed a prescribed Bible study course took advantage of the arrangement by offering themselves for baptism and will now join the ranks of more than one and a half million ministers already engaged in the door to door ministry of teaching people the Bible's message of hope.

The highlight of the program came Sunday at 2 p.m. when Henry C. Brewer of the world headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses presented the public discourse, "Is This Life All There Is?"

Brewer stated, "The frantic search for pleasure and attempt at 'living life to the full' reveals that most persons believe there is little hope to extend life eternally. Yet the Bible gives convincing evidence of the nearness of the time when faithful mankind will beging to grow to perfection under the rule of God's Kingdom by Christ Jesus."

Sikeston Jehovah's Witnesses meet in the Kingdom Hall on David Road located on Route Two.

Elder Gerald Presley is host pastor.

Program To Mark Wren Anniversary

FULTON, Mo. (AP) — The 340th anniversary of the birth of Sir Christopher Wren will be observed here in his church of St. Mary, Aldermanbury, Saturday with a concert by pupils from 12 Missouri high schools.

A feature of the evening program, which will follow a daylong choral workshop, will be the premiere of a special arrangement of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Peter was the only apostle to whom Christ appeared on the day of the resurrection.

This week's Uniform INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Dr. William H. Taft

FOR OCTOBER 22, 1972

Scripture: Luke 10:25-28; Colossians 3:11; James 2:1-9

EXPLOITATION OF PERSONS: RACE RELATIONS

Several years ago the white churches of America were shaken by the "Black Manifesto," a document first delivered to the National Black Economic Development Conference in Detroit in 1969.

The reactions among the Christian churches and Jewish synagogues varied from outright support for this message to outright opposition. Some churches split over support for the demands.

With a call for a half billion dollars from the white churches, the Black leaders probably stirred more discussion about race relations than at any time in our nation's history.

Race relations have created disagreements for centuries. The topic now is discussed more openly than ever before.

The Jews and the Samaritans had race problems although they too worshiped the same God and observed similar religious teachings. Yet, the Jews looked upon the Samaritans as a mixed race of people, not pure "Hebrew."

In reviewing today's lesson we must recognize the fact that the central realities of the gospel concern these points:

1. God's love for all men.
2. Christ's universal mission of redemption and compassionate service.
3. The worth and dignity of all persons.
4. The needs of persons in their human situation.

At times it is difficult to love one's neighbor or to love one of a different race. It demands service, sacrifice and suffering. Still, the Christian cannot play favorites. In other words, "show no partiality as you hold the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ."

The Supreme Court in 1954 called for a major adjustment in this nation's racial problems. Social legislation followed in areas other than education.

Churches followed suit in many areas, merging Black and white groups on many levels. Black bishops were assigned to predominantly white groups. Efforts were made to remove the "second-class citizens"label from the minority groups.

The segregation in reverse appeared with the Manifesto. Many blacks called for their own dormitories on college campuses. Others took pride in the Afro hair style. Special courses were urged for Black historical and literary studies.

The racial revolution involves other areas such as slum housing, price markings in ghetto supermarkets, treatment of Indian Americans and Mexican Americans, and job discrimination.

Changes can be achieved through institutions, political parties, social clubs and welfare agencies. The Christian must acknowledge the inherent worth of all persons.

The Black Manifesto was viewed by some white ministers as extortion while affirming the "Christian principle of restitution for wrongs done to others."

All church leaders rejected racism and violence, as well as separatism, yet viewed the Manifesto as "violating all recognized principles of democratic procedures."

The General Board of the Christian Church said: "It contains an ideology we cannot accept, a methodology we cannot approve, and a language we feel is excessive and inflammatory."

The Blacks said their demands were negotiable. They asked for money to aid Black farmers, to establish their own printing and publishing plants and audio-visual networks, research and training centers, and other projects.

The place to start in the racial revolution is with one's own attitude toward people of other areas.

Christians must do as Jesus advised the lawyer, "Love your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength and with all your mind; and your neighbor as yourself."

THE REV. BILLIE BUTLER stands before the United Pentecostal Church at 338 Matthews St. which he founded and has pastored since the summer of 1951. Beginning tonight at 7:30, the Rev. Mr. Butler and the church will celebrate their 21st anniversary and homecoming with special services through Sunday.

Pentecostal Church And Pastor Celebrate 21st Year Tonight

The Rev. Billie Butler and the United Pentecostal Church at 338 Matthews St., which he founded in the summer of 1951, will jointly celebrate their 21st anniversary and homecoming with special services tonight through Sunday.

The anniversary service tonight at 7:30 will feature the singing of the Lanny Wolfe Trio of Gateway College of Evangelism in St. Louis and the Rev. Guy E. Roam of St. Louis, district superintendent of the United Pentecostal Church, as special speaker.

Homecoming observance will begin with a Saturday night service and continue until the Sunday evening service. The Saturday service at 7:30 p.m. will feature the Rev. Harold Hodge of Jackson, Tenn.

Sunday's services begin with Sunday School at 9:45 and morning worship at 10:45 a.m. An afternoon service at 2 p.m. will feature the singing of the Huey Long Trio of St. Louis.

The church started in 1951 with an eight- week tent meeting on the site where Russell's Bulldog Inn is now located. During that span, Sunday School attendance rose from 23 the first Sunday to 142 in the eighth week.

The congregation purchased a building and moved to its present site at the corner of Matthews and Warner Streets on Oct. 15, 1951 with 172 in attendance the first Sunday.

Payments on the building during the first three years were made by member-donated labor of chopping and picking cotton in a share-crop project on the E.P. Coleman farm near Matthews.

The present sanctuary was built in 1960, and just this year, the church has undergone an extensive remodeling and face- lifting project. Among the improvements are a brick front on the building, new paneling for the walls and red carpeting and red padded pews.

The Rev. Mr. Butler has remained as the only pastor, and has led the church through continued growth to Sunday School attendance records up to a present high of 352. He has baptized more than 500 and, during his 21-year tenure, several ministers have come out of the church and are pastoring other churches.

All four of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Butler's children have been born and raised in Sikeston, and one is now attending Gateway College of Evangelism in St. Louis.

The church has operated a bus since 1951 with Farrel Wilson serving as the present driver. Robert Griggs is the Sunday School superintendent, and Mrs. Judy Newberry directs the 30- member church choir.

Church Has Ministry For Deaf

POPLAR BLUFF — Lending a helping hand to others less fortunate is more than a motto for members of Second Baptist Church of Poplar Bluff.

The congregation has taken the "helping hand" motto literally — in their concerted effort to reach the deaf people of Southeast Missouri through sign language.

For more than a year and a half, church members have interpreted the worship services to deaf persons at their Sunday services, morning and evening.

Then, every fourth Sunday, the church places a special emphasis on the deaf services, featuring a fellowship dinner for them following the morning services, which now attract from a dozen to 30 deaf persons who come from throughout the Bootheel to "hear" the services.

Pastor Frank E. Breithaupt said the church has featured two classes weekly for the past year and a half to teach congregation members and interested persons the art of sign language which will enable them to communicate with their deaf friends.

The classes, which are open to the public, are held on Wednesdays at 1:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. and have drawn up to 30 persons at a time.

Presently the morning services are interpreted for the deaf by Bud Lawson, while the song services are interpreted by Mrs. Richard Johnson.

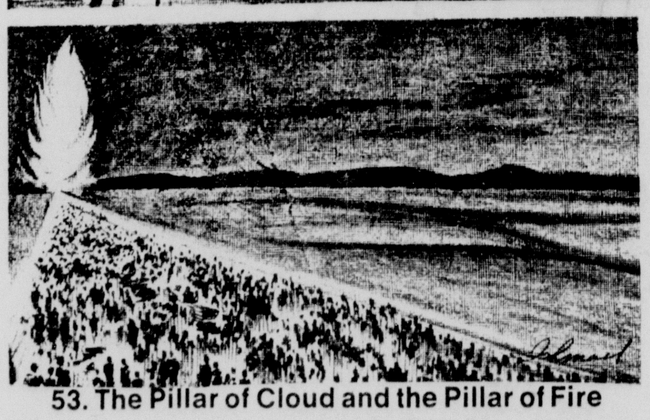
The POWER of FAITH By WOODI ISHMAEL



53. The Pillar of Cloud and the Pillar of Fire

After the last plague had killed all of the first-born of the Egyptians, Pharaoh relented and allowed Moses and the Israelites to leave Egypt. Many were reluctant to leave, for the Israelites had been held in bondage by the Egyptians for 430 years. Nevertheless, Moses led them through the wilderness, and they encamped by the Red Sea.

> "And the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of cloud, to lead them the way; and by night in a pillar of fire, to give them light; to go by day and night: He took not away the pillar of the cloud by day, nor the pillar of fire by night, from before the people." Exodus 13:21-22

The Lord told Moses that He would harden Pharaoh's heart again so that Pharaoh would come to regret his decision to allow the children of Israel to leave Egypt. The Lord also told Moses that Pharaoh would gather his army and chariots to pursue the Israelites. And the Lord said, " . . . I will be honoured upon Pharaoh, and upon all his host; that the Egyptians may know that I am the Lord." Exodus 14:4

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Two-Fisted Policeman

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Hector's efforts at law and disorder weren't too successful. Convicted of grand larceny, he was also arrested any number of times for street brawling. Thwarted by the police at every turn, Hector finally decided that if he couldn't beat them he'd join them and filed an application to become a city cop. As it developed, the police department at that time was in serious need of more cops.

Consequently, Hector was hired on a one- month trial basis. Almost immediately, however, Hector bombed out. He stopped Mr. Peepers for speeding and when the latter gave him an argument, Hector hauled off and punched Peepers in the eye.

Taking a dim view of the assault, Mr. Peepers sued the city for a beauty of a shiner.

"Since hitting Mr. Peepers wasn't in Hector's line of duty, argued a municipal attorney, "the city can't be held liable."

"That's what you say," retorted Mr. Peepers. "The fact is the city hired an ex- criminal as a cop. How absurd can you get? If a city is going to do a stupid thing like that, then it should be held responsible for what the cop does whether it's in the line of duty or not."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the city liable for Hector's getting out of line?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a municipality may be held liable for negligence in hiring a police officer knowing that he was a street brawler with a criminal record.

(Based upon a 1959 Illinois Appellate Court Decision)

The Jackson 5 Add Little Brother

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

We went to interview the Jackson 5 one morning and found six.

In addition to Jackie (whose name is Sigmund), Tito (whose name is Toriano), Jermaine, Marlon and Michael, who range in age from 21 to 13, there also was Randy, age 10, a player of bongo drums and sometime background singer.

Michael was wearing a tee shirt with "love" written on it. Jermaine says, "He wears them on every tour. It's his traveling shirt."

Michael has a solo album out on Motown, "Got To Be There." A single from it, "I Wanna Be Where you Are," is No. 8 on the July 8 best-selling list.

We ask him about singing love songs at his youngish age, and he says, "It's not odd for me to sing love songs because I know what I'm singing about." This brings laughs and snickers from his brothers. Jackie says, teasingly, "He gets really deeply involved." Michael defends himself, "There is no age limit to love."

The Jackson 5 has seven albums out, all of which have sold very well, and its singles have done well too. Many of them sell more than two million copies. Since the first single in January 1970, "I Want You Back," some of the big ones have been, "I'll Be There," "Never Can Say Goodby," "Rockin' Robin" and "Got To Be There." On the July 8 chart, the group's "Lookin' Through the Window" is No. 57 on the singles chart and the same title is No. 16 on the LP chart.

As the group talks, an adviser says, "I never saw you guys so quiet." They explain that they have just flown to New York and are still geared to Los Angeles time.

About Randy, Jackie says, "He has been dying to get in. He finally passed the test. He had to get his thing together first before he could join. He is okay now." He adds that the name of the group still is the Jackson 5.

Tito and Jermaine play guitar. Michael mostly and also Jermaine are lead singers. A couple of cousins play organ and drums.

Asked if they ever compare themselves with the Osmond Brothers, Michael says, "There is room for everybody." Jermaine says, "We just compare ourselves with ourselves. We just keep trying to improve."

Jackie says, "There's only one way to go and that is up. We don't think about going down, right, fellas? Right."

There also are three sisters in the family, Maureen, LaToya and Janet. Tito says, "Our baby sister wants in show business." "But no girls in the act," quickly adds Jermaine. "We'll give her a little boost some other way."

The group got its start in Gary, Ind., where the family lived until moving to California three years ago. Jackie says, "We were amateurs. Everybody had groups competing against each other. We won a talent show. The mayor of Gary had Diana Ross for a guest at a benefit show and he invited us to sing. She told us she'd take us to Motown.

MICHAEL JACKSON

"We sang the latest songs that were out, by the Temptations, the Miracles, the Supremes; whoever had a big tune on the charts, we'd sing it. We sang in Berry Gordy's office at Motown."

Marlon says, "When we were amateurs we played at the Apollo Theater a lot. We used to do five or six shows a day. We have spent Christmas at the Apollo." Jermaine says, "Back then, that was what we wanted to do." Jackie says, "We were just getting started so we were quite anxious. Back in '64 or '65 we started as amateurs."

Michael is only the first of the brothers to come out with a solo album. He says, "Jermaine is doing his thing. He's going to have a solo album. Everybody is going to have a solo album."

Tito says his will be more blues. Jackie says his will be mostly love songs. Marlon says, "Mine will be something like Michael's."

Right now the Jacksons enjoy motorcycles, except for Jackie who has a Camaro. Jermaine says, "I'll be getting a car soon, too. I don't know what kind."

Asked whether their father is strict with them, we hear both yes and no. Michael says, "We have a tutor that travels with us. When we're at home we go to regular school, private school. Our father travels with us and sees that everything goes right."

Jackie says, "We all have to do our chores around the house, like every other kid would do and we get out once in a while, but basically everything is like everybody else."

The group sang the theme song for the movie "Ben" and Michael has a rubber rat along with him on the tour. Jermaine says, "He brought Ben with him." There will be a movie made soon about the Jackson 5 and the way they live.

Everybody writes songs but none have been recorded yet. Michael says, "We're working on that. We will be recording it. But I'll take it easy on the Motown writers."

Do they fight? Marlon says, "Michael and Randy fight on the road. Randy is the only person Michael can mess around with that is his size."

Jackie says, "We just like to play. They're brotherly love fights."

COMMON DENOMINATORS

The little girl with the winning smile has something in common with millions of other kids all over the world. Her total wardrobe consists of the clothes she is wearing.

Common sense tells you that this shouldn't be; that no child should lack for clothes to sustain warmth, protection and peace of mind.

And, hopefully, common compassion will move you to contribute whatever clothing you can to the Catholic Relief Services' Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign, in progress during November.

The clothing you donate to your local Catholic church will be distributed to the needy, in more than 70 developing countries overseas.

Dismiss Inmate

Damage Suit

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A $500,000 damage suit filed by a state prison inmate against Warden Harold R. Swenson was dismissed Thursday by a federal court jury.

An all-white jury heard the case of a black inmate, Fred Barber Jr., who also named guard Edward M. Sturtz as a defendant and accused Sturtz of being racially prejudiced.

Barber claimed Sturtz denied him medical treatment when Barber fell from a trash truck at the Renz Prison Farm last @ Mach 22.

An orthopedic surgeon testified Barber suffered no permanent injury from the fall, but Barber said his left knee still bothered him.

Swenson testified he did not know of the incident.

The case was the third heard by a jury. The suits of two other inmates were dismissed in jury trials lst week.

U.S. District Judge Fred J. Nichol of Sioux Falls, S.D., on special assignment to consider the prisoners' petitions, dismissed 40 of them without a trial.

The cases of Sonny Townes and Robert Emmet Burns — both of St. @ Lois — will be heard next week in jury trials. Townes claims he was beaten by a guard and seeks $500,000. Burns charges that he was harassed and manhandled by guards. He seeks $100,000.

child.

Capt. Hugh McCollum, commander of the Sikeston cadet squadron, went along on the mission. Although the boy was found by ground searchers, McCollum said that if the people on the ground had been able to accurately belate the location to be searched, the plane might have found the boy sooner.

The Civil Air Patrol is interested in recruiting boys and girls for the ages of 13 to 17 in the aerial program. An annual enlistment program is presented to students at Sikeston Junior High School.

Cadets receive military discipline and go through a leadership training program. The cadet program consists of seven courses in such subjects as orientation of airplanes, navigation, weather, airplane engines and power plants.

The cadet must also learn the rules in the Civil Air Regulation Book, which is comparable to the automobile rulebook studied for the driver's license test. At the end of the seven courses, a Cadet should be able to pass a written private pilot examination. With the passing of each course, the cadet receives a promotion in rank and upon graduation, is a second lieutenant.

A cadet may take private plane instructions and has the opportunity to attend several summer camps each year. Membership fees are $10.

Senior members of the Civil Air Patrol pay dues of $30 a year and donate their time and services to the cause. There are presently eight senior members of the organization.

Last weekend Hugh McCollum, Earl Cook, William Swann and Maurice Stauffer participated in a statewide search and rescue mission, a simulated mission held in cooperation with the civil defense department.

The state was divided into sections, with the headquarters for the Sikeston CAP in Sullivan. According to McCollum, the event was successful, even though it rained.

Members of the cadet squadron are Bruce Shaner, Clem Scheffer, Roy Sanderson, William Swann, Elizabeth Miller and Rick Hanna of Sikeston, Fritz Calhoun of Bell City, Kerry McWaters of Canalou and Ricky Whiffen of Matthews.

Senior members are Charles Cline, Cook, James Doster, McCollum, Swann, Stauffer and Fred Thorton of Sikeston and Charles Penman of Portageville.

Living Costs Jump In September

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living, led by higher prices for clothing, accelerated in September and pushed the rate of inflation to 3.5 per cent since President Nixon's Phase 2 price controls began, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said that the Consumer Price Index rose four-tenths of one per cent last month, with higher prices for clothing causing almost half of the increase. The price of gasoline and eggs also contributed heavily to the advance.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the rate of increase was five-tenths of one per cent, the highest since February, when the economy was going through a post-freeze bulge in the rate of inflation.

The bureau said the effects of clothing, gasoline and egg price increases were moderated by lower prices for beef, fresh fruits and vegetables and new cars.

Cape County Clerk Has Election Query

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — County clerks are required by law to publish election notices in two newspapers in the county-- in one paper supporting the Republicans and one supporting the Democrats.

But what happens if the county has two Republican newspapers and two independents, but none that support Democrats?

In that case, the attorney general's office said today in answer to A. J. Seier, prosecuting attorney of Cape Girardeau County, the county clerk can publish the notices in any paper he chooses.

State law says the notices must be published in two newspapers representing the views of the two major political parties "when there are two such newspapers" in the county, said the opinion by Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard L. Weiler.

"In our opinion, it is equally clear that the county clerk is under no duty to publish in any particular paper when the newspapers published in his county do not represent both of the two major political parties," Weiler said.

PTA Sponsors Open House

The high school Parent-Teachers Association, in cooperation with the high school faculty, is sponsoring the annual open house from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Monday at the high school.

The PTA has extended an invitation to parents in the district to meet and visit with the teachers to see some of the work done by students during the school year.

The first grading period ends Oct. 30. The open house will provide an opportunity for parents to make an appointment to talk with teachers at length about the progress being made by their children.

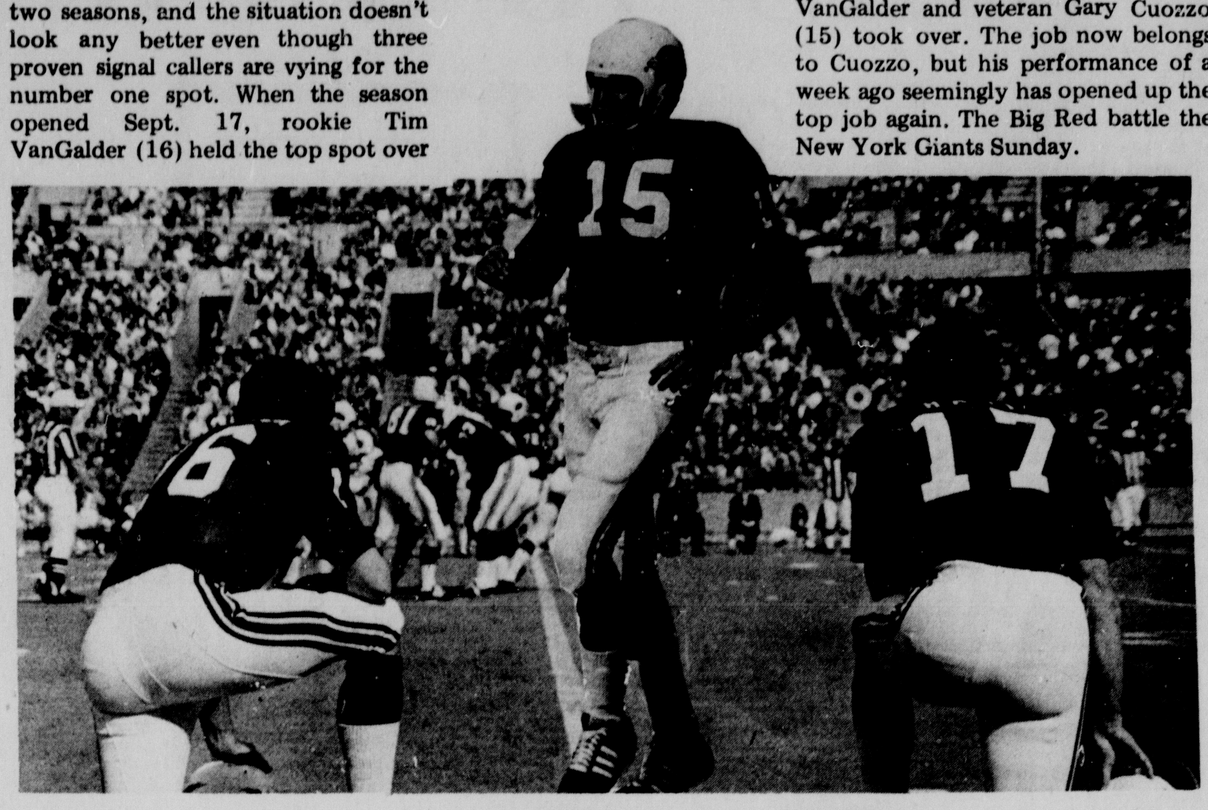
THE FOOTBALL CARDINALS have had a quarterback problem for two seasons, and the situation doesn't look any better even though three proven signal callers are vying for the number one spot. When the season opened Sept. 17, rookie Tim VanGalder (16) held the top spot over last season's number one QB, Jim Hart (17). But an injury sidelined VanGalder and veteran Gary Cuozzo (15) took over. The job now belongs to Cuozzo, but his performance of a week ago seemingly has opened up the top job again. The Big Red battle the New York Giants Sunday.



Tenace The Menace

OAKLAND (AP) — "Get a good pitch you can drive," said Oakland Manager Dick Williams. "Try to get the ball some place."

Pinch-hitter Angel Mangual got the pitch he wanted and put it in the right place—a single to right field that scored the winning run for the A's Thursday night.

The dramatic base hit through a drawn-in infield capped a two-run rally in the last of the ninth inning as Oakland beat the Cincinnati Reds 3-2 and took a solid 3-1 lead in the 1972 World Series.

"I prayed that the ball would go through," said Mangual after driving in Gene Tenace from third base with the winning run.

Three pinch-hitters came through for Williams in that emotion-charged ninth after the A's appeared to be finished.

Pedro Borbon, who had pitched in the eighth in relief of Cincinnati starter Don Gullett, was sitting on a 2-1 lead when the A's came up in the last inning. The Reds' right-hander got the first out of the inning, a harmless grounder by Mike Hegan.

Then Gonzalo Marquez hit for center fielder George Hendrick and singled up the middle, stirring the 49,410 partisan fans at the Oakland Coliseum.

When Borbon went to a 2-1 count on Tenace, Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson thought it was time for his best reliever, Clay Carroll.

Carroll threw one of his sinker balls to Tenace and the Oakland catcher hit it through the infield to left, just beyond the reach of shortstop Dave Concepcion for a single that sent pinch-runner Allan Lewis to second.

"He threw a good sinker to Tenace," said Anderson. "It was just a routine ground ball that got through."

Williams next called on Don Mincher to pinch-hit, telling the veteran first baseman:

"Go up swinging."

He did—and promptly brought the crowd to its feet with a single to right field that scored Lewis with the tying run.

Oakland pennants sprouted in the stands and wriggled furiously as the noise from the crowd became ear-splitting.

The stage was set for Mangual with runners on first and third and one out. He jumped on Carroll's first offering—a "fastball right over the plate"—and hit it to the right side of the infield. Second baseman Joe Morgan stretched for it, but it was a couple of feet beyond his reach. Tenace came in with the winning run to the wild cheers and an exploding scoreboard in center field. Fireworks went off as the Oakland catcher jumped on home plate and headed for a knot of happy teammates erupting from the dugout.

"The man upstairs has been good to me in this Series," said Tenace, who also hit a home run in the fifth inning to break a 20-inning Oakland scoring drought.

Tenace's third home run of the Series gave the A's a 1-0 lead off Cincinnati's Don Gullett. That small margin lasted until the Reds rallied for two runs in the eighth inning.

Dave Concepcion singled off starter Ken Holtzman and went to second on Julian Javier's sacrifice. A bouncer by Pete Rose moved Concepcion to third and at this juncture, Williams brought in Vida Blue to pitch to Joe Morgan.

It turned out to be a mistake. Morgan walked on a 3-2 count, then Bobby Tolan ripped a linedrive double into the right field corner to give the National League champions a 2-1 lead over the American league titlewinners.

That hit kept the hometown crowd subdued until the wild, ninth-inning finish. Rollie Fingers finished up and got his first World Series victory, providing the A's with the type of airtight pitching that has muffled Cincinnati's tough hitters.

The Reds, who rode to the National League flag on speed and brute power, didn't hit a home run in the first four games—all decided by one run.

Their usually-lethal first three batters—Rose, Morgan and Tolan—have collected a meager four hits in 44 appearances. And the Reds' top sluggers, Johnny Bench and Tony Perez, haven't hit a run nor driven in a run between them.

The A's tried to nail down the series with Jim "Catfish" Hunter against Cincinnati's Jim McGlothlin today.

Machine Has Flat

OAKLAND (AP) — Cincinnati's Big Red Machine has a flat.

Put into numbers, the malfunction reads 4-for-44. That was the collective batting effort of the first three men in Cincinnati's lineup for the first four games of the 1972 World Series.

Those first three men—Pete Rose, Joe Morgan and Bobby Tolan—have been dominated by Oakland pitching, and Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson says if they don't wake up today, it's all over.

"Oakland's just stopping them, that's what has happened," Anderson mumbled after the Reds' heartbreaking 3-2 loss to Oakland Thursday night.

"They've just stopped them cold. I just hope they don't stop them the next three (possible games).

"If we'd have won this one," Anderson said, "it would have been over in six games, no doubt about it.

"Now," he said, "if we don't shake ourselves, it'll be over in five."

Rose, the major league' leading hit-producer with 198 this season, has one hit in 15 World Series tries. Morgan is 0-for-13, and Toland is 3-for-16.

What makes things more frustrating is that power-hitters Johnny Bench and Tony Perez, who delighted all season in driving home the swift trio that populated the bases ahead of them, have been hot during the Series.

Bench is 5-for-14 and Perez is 7-for-14, yet the two incredibly, have no runs batted in and have scored only two runs themselves.

The Reds have no home runs in the four Series games, although Bench led the major leagues with 40 and Perez had 21 during the season.

"How long has it been?" Tolan asked after Thursday's game, "since you saw us go four games with just six runs? How long? Never!"

Tolan's frustrations typify those the Reds lineup has faced against the A's.

Jim McGlothlin, the littlepublicized right-hander assigned to face the A's this afternoon, sat at his locker, his jaw set.

"I just have to go out and try to get them," he said.

"It's like the last train in town. You miss it ... forget it."

MONTREAL (AP) — Jan Janssen and Gerald Koel of the Netherlands gave up and then recaptured the lead in Thursday's fourth day of the six-day bicycle race. Janssen and Koel yielded the lead in the afternoon to the Belgian pair of Norbert Seeuws and Julian Stevens but regained it in the afternoon.

The U. S. pair of Jackie Simes and Jan Van de Vel was in fourth place, three laps behind the leaders, with a point total of 386.

Blue Will Start 6th

OAKLAND (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds have had a frustrating, confounding World Series so far and Oakland Athletics' pitcher Vida Blue must know how they feel.

"Vida Blue will start the sixth game," A's Manager Dick Williams said Thursday night, changing his mind about the 23year-old left-handed pitcher for the third time in a week.

"I hope the Series doesn't go to the sixth game," Williams added after the 3-2 victory over Cincinnati that gave the A's the opportunity to clinch baseball's world championship today in Game No. 5.

Blue came on in relief of starter Ken Holtzman, another left-hander, in the eighth inning Thursday night with the A's ahead 1-0. He walked the first batter he faced and then gave up a two-run double to Bobby Tolan.

"I'll take a chance on Vida Blue another time," said Williams before announcing his plan to start Blue in the game that might be played Saturday in Cincinnati.

Williams was going to start Blue in an American League playoff game, but decided not to. He then scheduled the southpaw to open World Series Game No. 4, but switched to Holtzman and said Blue would stay in the bullpen.

Rollie Fingers followed the ineffective Blue Thursday night and got the victory to go with the save he recorded in the second game. Holtzman was somewhat a forgotten man.

Williams switched to Blue after a conference on the mound with catcher Gene Tenace.

"Gene told him I was throwing just so-so," Holtzman said. "I didn't say anything. I guess it wasn't my turn to say anything."

Four ninth-inning singles, three of them by pinch hitters Gonzalo Marquez, Don Mincher and Angel Mangual, brought the A's back to life and saved Blue from taking a pitching loss.

Blue, baseball's hottest pitching property in 1971, was only 6-10 this year after getting off to a late start because of his spring contract holdout.

He was sensational in relief in the World Series opener, shutting out the Reds over four innings to save a victory for Holtzman. Then he made a mistake—with his mouth.

"We're handling the Reds easier than the Texas Rangers," he said, referring to the last place American League team he shut out on a pair of two-hitters this year.

Reds' manager Sparky Anderson, with his team one game away from a long winter, couldn't resist having some fun after Thursday night's loss.

COLD HARD CASH

A winter bonus from Reddy Kilowatt!

It's more than just a figure of speech. What you're paying for in winter heating could be colder than you think. Drafty doors and run-down furnaces mean Reddy has to work overtime to keep you warm all winter. You'll get the most service for his low wages if you:

* check furnace filters for accumulated dust and lint
* weatherstrip windows and doors
* keep drapes drawn
* stabilize your thermostat at one reading instead of putting it up and down.

And even after the snows melt, it's a good idea to:

* replace worn faucet washers so hot water doesn't go down the drain
* run washers and dryers on short cycles when possible
* repair faulty appliances promptly
* wait until the dishwasher's full to turn it on.

Reddy provides electricity, no matter what, but only you can make the savings!

Umps Balk

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has confirmed his office is investigating reports that the names, addresses and telephone numbers of 11 major league umpires were contained in a book seized in a recent raid on the home of a wellknown Baltimore area gambler.

Contacted at the World Series in Oakland Thursday, Kuhn told the Associated Press, "We know about it. We are looking into it. That is all I can say,".

The report in Thursday's Baltimore News American quoted a "confidential, reliable source," as saying the umpires were from both the American and National leagues and included "some of the best-known umpires in professional baseball."

The reporter, Richard Irwin of the newspaper's Baltimore County bureau, wrote, "It was not known immediately what connection the convicted gambler had with the umpires."

The story identified neither the subject of the raid nor the umpires and did not give the date and location of the raid.

SHS 48-6 Underdog

Tonight's nine-game high school football schedule is apparently the toughest of the campaign, if one can judge by the Daily Standard's panel of prognosticators.

Through the first six weeks of the season, at least four games were mutually agreed upon by the entire 11-member board, but this week the story is different.

Malden is the only unanimous choice of the weekly guessers to post a win over Chaffee. And the panel just about agreed upon the same results ... 28-0.

This part of the campaign is generally sparked by homecoming battles, which seemingly produce some upsets .... but only one mild one is predicted by this week's group of guessers. Perryville is a slim pick over the Kennett Indians ... 20-19.

Cape Girardeau Central and Illmo-Scott City put their six-game undefeated records on the line agains apparently easy foes ... But while the panel of guessers favored both, the old swami went against the grain and tagged the Sikeston Bulldogs and Hayti Indians as winners. The panel favors the Bengals by a 48-6 score, while I'll go with a 21-20 score for the Dogs. I-SC is a slender 28-20 favorite over Hayti, but I'll reverse the score.

Sports Corner By Ron Jaynes

Charleston is a 7-3-1 favorite to record its first win and keep rival East Prairie among the non-winners ... The score should read something like ... 20-7.

Jackson is a 10-1 pick to survive its challenge from Festus ... The Indians are shootting for a state 3A playoff berth and must win to stay in contention ... Although the Indians are favored ... it's only by six points.

Dexter is an underdog against the Poplar Bluff Mules, but the bearcats have always been known to charge back with an outstanding game after a rousing defeat ... The Mules are 7-4 picks and the outcome shouldn't be more than the three-point difference.

Coach Jim McKay's Portageville Bulldogs have been rolling along after an early season defeat at the hands of Dexter and are 10-1 favorites to keep Caruthersville among the winless .... 27-7.

Gideon will win its first game of the season, if the guessers' last guess is correct ... The Bulldogs battle Bootheel Division rival South Pemiscot and are 7-4 picks by an average score of 18-7.

This week's panel is made up of the old swami, Rovina Ralph, Eddie Smart, Ron Hornback, Steve Myers, John Greer, Danny Summerfield, Tony Ford, Jerry Gentry, Bobby Gentry and the myster guesser ... The shadow.

Join with us next week when we'll again try to call the shots for you.

Spotlighting Increases

GAINESVILLE — The thief who comes in the night isn't exactly a popular fellow, whether he's making off with the family silverware ... or illegally shooting a deer.

Spotlighters are the bane of a Missouri conservation agent's existence, but the day of the spotlighter may be on the wane if recent developments are any indication.

In Ozark County two men who killed a deer just at dusk,using a light-collecting scope and a high-power rifle, were caught and fined $500 each recently by Magistrate Judge Clyde Rogers who had passed down previous stiff sentences on illegal deer kill cases.

That size of fine in itself would make a jacklighter think twice, but even more of a deterrent was the activity among local landowners.

"The area where these two men killed the deer," says Ozark County conservation agent Bill Hailey, "Has some of the best bottom alfalfa fields in the county. That concentrates deer and it also attracts spotlighters.

"But the landowners are fed up with deer shining. They've had stock shot at and harrassed and they are through dilly-dallying.

So, when the two men were seen in the area, the landowners got on their party line and worked out a plan. They sealed off the road so the illegal hunters couldn't get their car out. Then they called Hailey who, along with Charles Coatney, manager of Caney Mountain Wildlife Refuge, searched for and finally found the men.

"This kind of landowner cooperation is vital if we're going to end spotlighting," Hailey said. "An agent just can't patrol all the likely areas in a county, even if he goes at it 24 hours a day.

"But when the landowners realize they lose stock and sleep and that spotlighters are cheating them and all honest citizens, then we see the tide turn."

Spotlighting is not peculiar to Missouri by any means. Michigan recently passed a law making all deer shining, either with or without weapons in the car illegal. Michigan estimates spotlighters take from 20,000 to 30,000 deer every year.

That's just about the average legal harvest in Missouri over the past 20 years. Michigan's new law makes it a violation to have a bow or firearm while using an artificial light between midnight and sunrise.

A Michigan conservation agent recently was run down and killed by two men spotlighting bears. The type of people who spotlight are also the type of people who run down conservation agents.

In Missouri, the law prohibits hunting wildlife with a light, except furbearers, such as raccoons when treed by dogs, and bullfrogs. It's illegal to use a light and have at the same time any kind of weapon in the car or even in a group of persons (so that one cannot use a light while another does the shooting).

Poachers Caught

UNION — The wrong place to commit a wildlife violation is in front of a man who has won international awards for his wildlife movies – and who has a telephoto lens and a camera with him.

It cost two men each $250 and court costs, plus a tough lecture from Franklin County Magistrate Judge Lawrence O. Davis to find that out.

Charles Schwartz, moviemaking for the Department of Conservation, his wife Elizabeth and fellow moviemaker Glenn Chambers were working on a Canada goose film on May 4, shooting scenes of cliff-nesting geese along the Missouri River near here.

The unique flock of geese nest high in the cliffs along the river and have been featured recently in stories all over the nation after the Schwartzes and Chambers documented the flock.

As Schwartz watched, three men in a boat made a run at one of the cliffnesters the film-makers had just photographed and one of the men shot it. Schwartz quickly put a long lense on his camera and filmed the men chasing a second goose, which they shot just as he ran out film.

That eyewitness and photographic evidence persuaded the men to plead guilty to the charge of shooting a goose out of season. G. Bernard Esser, assistant prosecuting attorney of Boone County, and a friend of the Schwartzes, took a day off to help them present the case.

When the story of the cliff-nesting geese appeared, it featured a picture of two of the birds on their lofty nest. Shots of the same two birds are in the Department of Conservation's newest movie, "Design for Conservation", and also probably will be i the Schwartz- Chambers goose movie.

Those are the two birds the illegal hunters shot.

WILKES BARRE, Pa. (AP) — Fines of $1,000 have been imposed on two harness horsemen who pleaded guilty to charges of bribery and conspiracy in connection with alleged race fixing in 1971 at Pocono Downs.

Fined Monday were Kenneth Backer of Ottawa a driver, and Anthony Bonura of Neptune, N.J., an owner.

Bert L. Enflen of Harrington, Del., who was charged with conspiracy, was fined $250.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Sugar Bowl announced Monday that Louisiana State University at New Orleans, moving into major competition this year for the first, time, will play in the Sugar Bowl's 1973 tournament.

Other teams in the tournament will be North Carolina State, Villanova and Memphis State.

ALMOST HIDDEN in camouflage clothing is this bowhunter. Missouri's archery deer season runs from now until the end of the year. In addition, lucky hunters who were drawn by lot participated in the Knob Noster State Park archery deer hunt Oct. 14-15.

Tours Begin

PUXICO-- The 25- mile auto tour will be open on Sunday afternoons during October and November again this year, according to Mingo Refuge Manager, Jerry Clawson. The tour is self- guides and starts at Refuge Headquarters one and a half miles north of Puxico on Highway 51.

A leaflet, which describes various points of interest along the route, is available at the start of the tour. The tour route follows the outside perimeter of famed Mingo Swamp and runs completely around the area ending on Highway 51, three miles north of Refuge Headquarters. It takes about two hours to complete the tour.

The tour offers an opportunity for a scenic drive and a chance to see wildlife at the same time. Fall colors are at their best during the last two weeks of October. Ducks and geese begin arriving in early October and reach peak numbers in late November. Deer and turkey are frequently seen, and occasionally a bobcat is sighted.

Refuge Manager Jerry Clawson suggested visitors bring binoculars and a camera and noted the best time to see wildlife was in the late afternoon.

The Mingo area is administered by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries & Wildlife, U.S. Department of Interior.

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association reduced their squad to 11 players Thursday by asking waivers on second-year guard Bunny Wilson, their No. 2 draft choice in 1971.

Wilson, a product of the University of Baltimore, missed some of his rookie year with a kidney ailment and averaged 3.5 points a game in the 1971-72 season.

ARTIST'S DRAWING shows the proposed eighth and ninth grade school being sought by the Sikeston Board of Education.

Chamber Endorses School Bond Issue

The Chamber of Commerce Thursday voted unanimously to endorse the bond issue for the proposed eighth and ninth grade school building.

The vote came after Supt. of Schools Sam Harbin discussed the school and why it was necessary.

Harbin said today that the board of education will meet next week to reset the election date from Oct. 31 to some date in November.

Harbin said the board has discovered so many legal technicalities that the election must be postponed.

Harbin told the Chamber that the school, to be built and furnished with a $1-million bond issue, can be financed without raising taxes.

The school district's bond payments will drop about $65,000 at the end of the year, enabling the district to float the bond issue, Harbin said.

Eighth grade students from the junior high school will be sent to the new center, as will freshmen from the high school.

This will help reduce the overcrowding in those schools. Harbin said there are 1,077 students in the Junior high building which was designed to hold 600.

The high school is also overcrowded, but not as badly, Harbin said.

The 46,000- square- foot school will house 900 students with 33 teaching stations, including 22 classrooms and 11 other stations.

The school will take nine to 12 months to build and will be located at the intersection of Virginia and Twitty streets.

Schramm Sees Need For Rural Growth

Missouri should make a strong effort to bring people back to rural areas and away from the cities, Jack Schramm, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, said today.

Schramm said not all of the problems in the state are found in the congested urban areas.

"Many of our small cities are dying. Small farmers struggle for survival. People are forced to uproot themselves from places they have lived all their lives to seek employment in the cities.

"We must be as concerned about the health of outstate Missouri as we are about the health of urban areas." We must provide viable alternatives to flight to the cities, particularly for young people," Schramm said.

Schramm called for a rural development agency to help improve conditions for rural businesses, farmers and job seekers.

"We should examine markets to find opportunities for helping small landowners, providing jobs in towns and cities and bringing new income to rural Missouri," Schramm said.

An an example, he cited fish farming.

"Suppose we find fish farming is potentially a very profitable endeavor for small farmers and that there are major market opportunities, a rural development corporation could issue revenue bonds to finance start- up costs and lease equipment to the farmers. The lease payments would retire the bonds," Schramm said.

He said the state would benefit from new industry and new income without taxes. The small farmer would benefit from new business opportunities, increased markets, and the unemployed benefit from new jobs.

Schramm said federal funds for grants and cost-sharing are available through the Rural Development Act of 1972.

"The state should make intelligent use of those funds where we can," he said. "The health of rural Missouri is necessary to the health of the state."

Schramm added he felt the lieutenant governor should be more clearly identified with the administrative branch of government, instead of being thought of as the president of the senate.

Schramm said the office should be used to create "innovative approaches" to government.

Schramm said many people feel the government is not responsive to their needs. He said the government must be more visible, more accountable and more responsible.

Shelton Ruling Set Aside

The finding of guilty of failing to close a tavern on time against Ruth Mac Shelton, 207 St., was set aside and dismissed in City Court Thursday night.

The Shelton woman had been found guilty and fined $20 on the charge in City Court Wednesday.

She is an employe of Lowell Caskey, 918 Allen Blvd., owner of King Arthur Lounge on East Center Street. Caskey also was found guilty of failing to close the tavern by 1:30 a.m. and was fined $110.

Caskey will not have his license to operate the tavern revoked, but was placed on probation for one year.

In other cases before the court:

Ernestine Graham of NewMadrid was fined $110 on charges of petit larceny; warrants were issued for the arrest of Larry Joe Lane, 819 E. Kathleen, after he failed to appear in court on charges of careless and imprudent driving, peace disturbance and no city auto sticker. Jimmy E. Ranney, 234 N. Handy, was fined a total of $155 on charges of driving while intoxicated and three counts of failing to stop at a stop sign; Helen Thelma Clark, 224 Handy, assault and battery, was fined $20.

James Ronnie Jackson, 626 Murray Lane, assault and battery, dismissed; Margaret Morton, 815 Wallace, peace disturbance, fined $35; Richard Lee Johns of Oran, careless and imprudent driving, fined $35; Charles Marion Kaiser, 203 Selma, peace disturbance, forfeited bond of $35.

Milton Perry Brummett of Nashville, Tenn., speeding, was fined 45; Charles Heavener, Route Four, peace disturbance, $30; George Baker Sr., 311 Luther, peace disturbance, forfeited bond of $10; Jack Clemons, 129 Fourth St., escaping custody, forfeited bond of $110, no city sticker, forfeited bond of $11; Arthur Robertson of Jackson, peace disturbance, fined $35; and Marjorie L. Hopgood of East Prairie, careless and imprudent driving, fined $29.

LESS THAN fifty persons were on hand at Malone Park Thursday night to greet Bill Burlison and Rep. Jack Schramm, Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor. Here Burlison speaks briefly in the cool temperatures to the handful of visitors at a rally sponsored by Scott County Young Democrats Club. (Daily Standard Photo)

Calvin And Dirks Elected By BEDC

MALDEN — Two new officers were elected to the council of the Bootheel Economic Development Commission at Thursday night's meeting at Malden Industrial Park.

Elected vice chairman of the council was John Calvin of Sikeston Route Three. Ron Dirks of Malden was elected secretary - treasurer. Pat Lea of Sikeston is chairman of the council.

A lengthy discussion of the regional solid waste plan ended in approval and adoption of the plan.

U.S. Admits Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today admitted responsibility for the bombing of the French mission in Hanoi, saying it "was inadvertently struck by a U.S. bomb."

The Pentagon issued a brief statement calling the Oct. 11 attack an accident caused either by mechanical failure or a hung bomb.

The head of the mission, Delegate-General Pierre Susini, died of burns in a Paris hospital Thursday night. Five Indochinese employes in the mission also were killed.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said it was likely that the damage was caused by a 500-pound bomb that had fallen from one of two dozen Navy planes from the carrier Midway which were attacking military targets about three miles from the French Legation.

He said the bomb apparently dropped as one of the planes was heading to or coming from its assigned target.

"Obviously this was an accident and not a planned strike," he told reporters.

A hung bomb would mean that one of the 500 or 1,000pound bombs used in the raid failed to drop on the intended target when it was supposed to; instead, after the supersonic jet pulled up and away, the bomb slipped off on a wild course.

Friedheim said because it was an accident no reprimand, recriminations or punishment are planned.

At the outset, Hanoi maintained that it was an American bomb that hit the French mission. While the U.S. Command did not deny this, it also raised the possibility that the damage could have been caused by one of more than a half dozen North Vietnamese surface-toair missiles fired at the American jets. The Command said it did not know and was investigating the cause.

Second Robbery Suspect Arrested

CARUTHERSVILLE — Frances Harris of Sikeston, wanted for the Oct. 14 robbery of Pender Jewelry store in Steele, has been arrested and released to the custody of her parents.

The Harris woman was brought into the Sheriff's office about 10:30 a.m. Thursday by her father, Ida Wallace of Sikeston. Sheriff's deputies said she was released without bond into the custody of her parents because she is a diabetic.

Both the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the highway patrol agreed to release her, deputies said.

One other person, Joe Graves of Rives, has been arrested in the robbery which netted $17,000 worth of jewels.

Two other men, Dale Rose of Sikeston and Bryan Dennis, an ex-convict on parole from California, are being sought for taking part in the robbery.

The Sheriff's office also said that Mary Russell of Hayti, who was shot in the neck at 5 p.m. Wednesday by Robert Miles of Hayti, has refused to press charges. Miles has been released.

United Fund Drive Climbs To $14,000

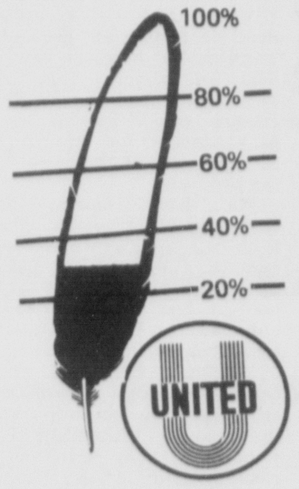
Thirty per cent of this year's United Fund Goal of $46,347 has already been collected or pledged, according to Rob Mitchell, this year's United Fund chairman.

With only one- fourth of the time allotted to attain the goal now past, Mitchell said this morning that approximately $14,000 has been received. The drive will run until Dec. 1.

Jerry Bratcher is team manager for retail sales collections and Lee Shell is head of industry contributions.

Retail team members include Jarrell Griffin, Steve Sikes, Rich Wrather, Norman Emil, Emma Owen, Ken Coffey, Betty Mitchell and David Boardman. The industry committee consists of Earl Hutchison, Jim Baker and Rick Adams.

Donations may be made by calling any of these, or their captains, Mitchell, and Mrs. Jewel Allen; or donations may be sent to United Fund, Sikeston, Mo. 63801.



Four Injured In Two Area Accidents

Four persons were injured in the only two area traffic accidents reported Thursday, according to the highway patrol.

A three-vehicle accident at 4:20 p.m. on Route NN three miles north of Gobler resulted in injuries to three persons, Beatrice Virginia Taylor, 52, of Gobler, Virginia Cherry, 12, address unknown and Patsy Ruth Sale, 34, of Gideon.

Mrs. Taylor, who was seriously injured, and the Cherry girl were taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett. Mrs. Sale received severe heat cuts and was taken to the Blytheville Air Force Base Hospital.

The accident occurred as the Taylor pickup truck was making a left turn from Route J onto Route NN. Mrs. Sale came up up behind the pickup, applied her brakes, skidded across the center line and struck the left front of the truck. The car then went off the highway and struck a third car parked on the side of the road.

A pedestrian was seriously injured Thursday in an accident at 7:30 p.m. on a gravel road in Brownwood. Roy Williams, 33, of Advance Route Two received multiple fractures and is reported in critical condition in Dexter Memorial Hospital

Civil Air Patrol Helps In Rescue Work

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eighth in a series of articles about the 11 agencies benefiting from this year's United Fund campaign. Today's article deals with the Civil Air Patrol)

By DONNA SATTERFIELD

The Sikeston Civil Air Patrol is allotted $850 from this year's United Fund goal of $46,347.

The Civil Air Patrol was founded in 1941 by a group of patriotic individuals who volunteered their services and their privately owned aircraft to patrol America's coastline and borders.

The patrol today carries on the work of the founders by flying search and rescue missions, cooperating with civil defense agencies at all levels of government and by helping people and communities stricken by floods, hurricanes and other natural disasters.

Sikeston Civil Air Patrol headquarters is located at Sikeston Memorial Airport in a building that also houses the Army rescue unit and the citizens band radio club. The CAP members own their own radio equipment and a Piper Commanche 250 airplane, which was purchased last year.

The Civil Air Patrol works through the sheriff's office on rescue missions. When a pilot does not appear at his destination flight plan, a red cap mission is called. Searchers plot the course, find out where the pilot was last heard from and fly the pattern at a low altitude.

An example of how the Civil Air Patrol aids the community is the search for the four-year- old boy in Mississippi County lost last month.

From the sheriff's office a call was placed to CAP state headquarters in Kansas City where a search was authorized and a helicopter and pilot sent from Springfield to search for the

PRINCE SIHANOUK

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the deposed leader of Cambodia, is not living it up as he once did. Instead of playing the saxophone and making home movies, he is leading the active political life of an exile in Peking. Sunday, Oct. 22, will mark his 50th birthday, and Sihanouk says (Newsweek, July 17): "I have come to realize there are other things in life besides trifles, and I have more esteem for myself since I have lived an austere life."

Rather than follow other monarchs into luxurious exile in southern France, Sihanouk has become the head of a revolutionary movement which is fighting the pro-American Cambodian government of Lon Nol. Indeed, the success of the Cambodian Liberation Front makes it increasingly likely that Sihanouk will be able to return to his country someday. The prince claims that his liberation army, which controls most of Cambodia, currently fields 60,000 troops augmented by a 100,000-man militia. It could be that two of Sihanouk's old avocations -- playing Monopoly and war games -- are now paying unexpected dividends.

Sihanouk came to the throne in 1941, when he was only 18 years old. At first, by his own admission, he led the life of a playboy. Later on, he played a key role in ridding the country of French domination. Then, in March 1955, Sihanouk abdicated and announced the formation of the Sangkum Reastr Niyum, or Popular Socialist Community. In September of that year, he was elected premier. Sihanouk proceeded to infuriate the United States by refusing to join the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and by his adherence to a strictly neutralist foreign policy.

Sihanouk now addresses the Cambodian people by way of Peking radio once every 10 days. According to all reports, he remains popular with the peasantry. He admits that his administration was "folklorique" and harbors few illusions about the future. No Communist himself, he nevertheless believes that the political coloration of the entire Indochinese peninsula is destined to be some shade of red. As for the United States, he says (The Times of London, Sept. 17): "The Americans could not understand that, precisely because I am not a Thieu, but a true patroit, I was the only hope for stability."

McG FIGURES "ODDS'
FOR HIM

Every little bit helps in an election campaign, too. Thus a group called Americans Abroad for McGovern is trying to enlist the draft-dodger vote in Canada, reports the National Observer.

That would amount to about 10,000 votes. The group is also wooing the non-draft- dodging American vote in Canada and hopes to win about 75 per cent of it. (According to the State Department, some 250,000 U.S. citizens are living and working north of the border.)

As for the draft dodgers, apparently all they have to do is swear that they intend to return to the United States some day to live in order to qualify for absentee ballots. The biggest job facing McGovern workers in Canada is convincing the expatriates they won't be arrested if they apply at a U. S. consulate.

Otherwise, they figure their candidate "will inevitably" get the draft-dodger vote, says the Observer.

It's not exactly something to crow about.

Oct. 20 Boyle Column Benisons of Being: Memorable Moments in a Lifetime

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things that make life worth living:

The relieved smile of a tearful child after you pluck a splinter from its foot without pain. Pulling cockleburrs out of a dog's coat. Breaking snap beans for a big family Thanksgiving dinner.

The opening of a bud. The soft closing of a door after you kiss goodnight the one you love.

Seeing your face get back to normal after the mumps. Holding a milk bottle to your ear to see if it will echo the sea's murmur as a seashell does.

Watching a Handy Andy wife wallpaper a room all by herself.

The elation of learning that you're going to be a father for the first time, and then the slight deflation of realizing that probably 20 billion other men have had that feeling before you. Well, so hurrah for them, too — each man in his time.

Squishing cool river bottom mud between your toes on a hot July day. Urging your best girl to go wading in a cold mountain stream.

Falling asleep to the timeless feathered thunder of the surf. Waking in the night drowsily when rain spatters on the roof of a cabin in the woods.

Pinning a baby's diaper without pinning either the baby or one of your fingers.

The wet summons of a waterfall.

Learning to make your knuckles pop. Learning to make a fire without matches. Learning how to whistle through your front teeth. Learning the alphabet backward. Learning that Rome wasn't built in a day. Learning that love has many lessons, not just one, and sometimes makes you want to cry.

An unseen jet plane scarring the sky with vapor trails — the eerie signature of the invisible machine.

Holding up your arm in a new class when the teacher finally asks a question you can answer. Holding up a piece of smoked glass so you can stare at an eclipse. Holding on to a rope successfully in a tug-ofwar contest. Holding hands with a girl on the way home from church. Holding up your baby sister to look at a store window full of playing puppies. Holding on to a job you can't afford to lose.

The sight of a great white snowfall covering the ugliness of a great grimy city.

The song of an unknown bird, half-heard all alone at twilight in a dim and darkening forest.

For these and other benisons of being, we thank Thee, Amen.

UNFAIR ATTACK

As a supporter of the soft drink tax proposal which would have financed a program of improvement by the State Conservation Commission, we regret that the recent petition efforts failed to qualify for a place on the ballot this November.

We also regret the attacks which some supporters of the measure have leveled at Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick simply because he was true to his oath of office in rejecting the petition because it did not contain the enacting clause required by the Missouri Constitution.

Kirkpatrick was doing what he had sworn he would do — uphold the Constitution of the State of Missouri. We admire him for doing his duty even when he knew this might hurt him.

The irony of the whole flap is that even if Kirkpatrick had not rejected the petition, you can bet the forces opposing it would have obtained a court ruling against putting it on the ballot. Such a ruling came from the Missouri Supreme Court which held that the Secretary of State had acted correctly.

Thus, Kirkpatrick should need no further defense of his position. But this is an election year. Elections, sometimes defy logic. And the needless attacks on Kirkpatrick may have damaged him in the eyes of supporters of the soft drink tax proposal.

We have known Jim Kirkpatrick for many years, both as a fellow newspaperman and an outstanding public official. Through those years he has been a supporter of conservation. He is also a man who firmly believes in the right of citizens to petition their government. His ethics and character have stood up under the most glaring spotlight of all — public scrutiny of him as an elected official of the State of Missouri.

It is most unfair that there should be this attempt to flaw him for doing what every citizen has a right to expect him to do— his duty as an elected official.

We believe that if a soft drink tax for conservation purposes is to have a chance in the future the supporters who have attacked Kirkpatrick should stand up and admit they made a mistake. Otherwise questions may arise as to their ethics— and possibly as to the proposal itself.

THE MEN AROUND HIM

Now comes still further evidence of a direction connection between the White House and efforts to subvert the Democratic presidential campaign. According to TIME, two White House aids, Dwight L. Chapin and Gordon Strachan, arranged the hiring of a young lawyer named Donald H. Segretti who roamed the country attempting to recruit saboteurs and undercover agents to work against Democratic candidates. Messrs. Chapin and Strachan, of course, are merely two members of what appears to be a growing cast of characters in this unsavory melodrama. In alphabetical order here are some of the others and their alleged roles:

KEN W. CLAWSON, White House deputy communications director, author of a fake letter about Senator Muskie; CHARLES COLSON, presidential counsel, sponsor of E. Howard Hunt who was indicted in the Watergate break-in; HUNT, former presidential aid, see Colson above; ROBERT C. MARDIAN, former Justice Department official who after joining the Republican campaign office sought confidential information about Democrats from Justice files; JOHN N. MITCHELL, who as Attroney General controlled a secret espionage fund in the office of Republican finance chariman Maurice Stans; STANS, former Secretary of Commerce who cannot explain how $114,000 in Nixon campaign funds arrived in the bank account of one of the men arrested in the Wategate; WILLIAM TIMMONS, White House aid, recipient of logs from wiretaps on Democratic National Headquarter telephones.

That, we submit, is quite a list and it says a good deal about the character and caliber of the men whom the President not only has entrusted to run his re-election campaign but also to high national office. It also says something about the character of a President who apparently sees nothing improper about surrounding himself with assistants who see their highest calling not as officials to serve the public but as agents to secure by whatever means possible his re-election.

BEWARE OF
SIR ORACLE

Numerous novels have been written about the dreadful fate that overtakes a nation when it succumbs to the mediocrity and repression of Big Brother government. None was more vivid in its presentation of the disintegration of a government controlled society than "Atlas Shrugged," by Ryn Rand. The utter stagnation and collapse of industries caught in the paralyzing tentacles of a mindless bureaucracy seemed, a few years ago, too fanciful to accept as a genuine real life possibility for the United States. But, in considering the political web of restraint that is being woven around the U. S. prescription drug industry, the conclusion is inescapable that the nightmare portrayed in "Atlas Shrugged" is, not only possible, but quite probable.

The government is now undertaking to tell over 200 million people, as well as tens of thousands of doctors, scientists and laboratory technicians, exactly which medicinal compounds are effective in the treatment of illness and which are not. Prohibitive decrees are issued against those considered ineffective by a Washington administrator. The question of safety is beside the point. There is even an impending efficacy rating system to be applied to the labeling of thousands of drugs. Regardless of clinical experience in actual practice, all drug labeling and advertising is to carry the officially decreed efficacy rating as applied to each drug upon which official judgment has been passed.

One study has revealed that lengthy and rigid requirements for meeting proof of efficacy will result in scientific and medical resources being diverted from more important long-range research. The study also warns that regulations have retreated from the reasonable to the unreasonable and from the generally practical to the loftily academic. As columnist James J. Kilpatrick comments, "This is autocratic rule -- the rule of Sir Oracle; and the effect is not to benefit American medicine. The effect is rather to inhibit that freedom of clinical experience which lies at the heart of good medical practice."

SURRENDERING CONTROL OVER OUR MONEY

The world monetary agreement currently being proposed by Treasury Secretary George Shultz would, if put into effect, destroy the dollar as an independent currency. The agreement would give full control of the value of the dollar, as well as that of all free world currencies, to a small financial elite.

Under the proposed plan, a few international bankers and high government officials would be empowered to set the value of all paper currencies in the world, to keep these currencies from being converted into gold and to enforce their decisions by treaty authority.

Under such a plan, those in power would almost certainly manipulate the value of the currencies to their own profit and advantage. The average man, in the United States and other countries, would not be considered.

Already most people in our country suffer from the uncertainities caused by inflation. Retired people are especially hurt by the declining value of the dollar because the savings they worked hard to accumulate are worth less and less. This new plan would remove the last remaining effective restraints on inflation.

The plan is justified as a means of lessening our balance of payments deficit. Yet even Secretary Shultz admits that this deficit is primarily due to our gigantic outlay of foreign aid since World War II. The obvious solution to the balance of payments deficit is to cut our foreign economic aid. Turning over control of our money to international financiers would only make U.S. economic problems worse than they already are. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON-- A device that would cut the homeowners' gas bills by 20 to 30 per cent has been kept off the market by the American Gas Association.

The fuel saver, known as Vent- O- Matic, is an automatic damper which can be attached in the flue of a gas furnace. It has been approved by the Canadian Gas Association, which tested the device and found it safe.

But the AGA, after four years of stalling, still hasn't even started the testing. As a practical matter, no gas furnace fixture can be marketed and installed until it has been tested and approved by the AGA, because contractors won't use it.

The AGA, of course, is formed by the gas industry which would like to increase, not decrease, the homeowners' gas bills. The association was hardly enthisiastic, therefore, about the Vent- O- Matic fuel saver when it was submitted for testing back in 1968.

Routine tests were run on three basic types of furnaces. The damper was found to be safe and the proper certificates were issued. But AGA withheld general approval on the grounds that no specific standards existed for the Vent— O— Matic device and offered to test it on any furnace submitted. But the purchase price of all the types of furnaces in use would have cost several million dollars. The manufacturer asked that standards be drawn up instead.

The matter was turned over to AGA's approval committee, known as Z21. Finally, in 1971, the committee got around to authorizing a task force to test the Vent— O— Matic damper and write the standards. But a year later, no task force had been established. Last April, the Z21 committee reauthorized the task force. But still nothing has happened.

The AGA claims it can't get anyone to chair the task force. But the association refused to tell us who had turned down the chairmanship and how many people had been approached. My reporter Ken Fisher could locate only two people who had been offered the job. One was a California gas company official who said he declined because his company couldn't benefit from the device. The other, a Boston fire protection official, said he lacked the expertise.

After spending weeks talking to dozens of people familiar with the facts, we have concluded that the AGA is deliberately stalling. An ACA spokesman explained that it takes time to test a new device to make sure it is safe. But the AGA hasn't even set up a testing committee to begin the tests.

Homeowners, meanwhile, continue to pay for gas that the device could save.

Nixon Celebration-- So confident is the White House of victory in November that top aides have been asked to keep a Christmas date free for a gala victory celebration with President Nixon at San Clemente, Calif. The President's confidence has not been shaken by the Watergate affair, Soviet wheat deal, ITT case and other scandals. He told visitors privately that he was distressed over the scandals but didn't think they would hurt him on election day. They were too complicated, he said, for the public to understand. He also said that the public memory on government scandals was short. He suggested that the voters have already forgotten, for example, what the ITT scandal was all about.

Burger's Dissembling-- With his white pompadour and solemn demeanor, Chief Justice Warren Burger looks as if he had been cast for the part by Hollywood. But if he looks like a chief justice ought to look, he doesn't always behave as a chief justice should behave. We caught him, for example, meddling improperly in the legislative process. He sent Rowland Kirks, the chief administrator of the federal courts, to lobby with Speaker Carl Albert against certain provisions of the safe products bill. Lawyer- lobbyist Thomas Corcoran, who accompanied Kirks to the Speaker's office, told us Kirks acted as Burger's representative. Corcoran and Kirks presented to the Speaker arguments that Burger had made four days earlier before the American Bar Association. Now Burger, in a letter to the Speaker, has denied his role in the lobbying mission. "Any responsible person who wanted to secure the facts," he wrote, "could have secured them from me." The truth is that we made repeated attempts to get a comment from Burger. After our column appeared, half a dozen Supreme Court correspondents jointly submitted several written questions to Burger. He still hasn't responded.

Porpoise Slaughter-- A few years ago, commercial tuna fishermen discovered schools of yellow- finned tuna could often be found beneath schools of porpoises. So the fishermen began encircling the entire mass of fish with nets. They brought in the harmless, people- loving porpoises along with the tuna. The porpoises, being air- breathing mammals, would get entangled in the nets and would drown. Their carcasses simply would be discarded. Conservationists claim thousands of porpoises are killed every day. Tuna fishermen, naturally, say the daily kill runs "only in the hundreds." Environmentalists argue that there should be an immediate moritorium on porpoise kills. Others say such a ban would force tuna fishermen to register their boats under foreign flags and take their business elsewhere. Congress has now passed a law which permits tuna fishermen to continue their current techniques for two years while scientists engage in federally- funded research on the problem. For a generation of Americans brought up on the adventures of Flipper, however, two years is a long, long time.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Friend of the 'Families': Mafia Dragnet Exposes Hoff's Old Allies

NEW YORK — Soon Jimmy Hoffa will be able to push for prison reform for some of his closest friends and friends of those close friends. For it was their Brooklyn junkyard trailer Mafia headquarters which was the center of the most massive organized crime dragnet ever spread.

This is a significant, untold part of the story of last Monday's nation-shaking bust of crime syndicate families by 1,200 police.

The blue-gray, 40-by-15-foot posh trailer was run by a relatively newly made cappo, virtually unknown until Monday, Paul Vario, head of the toughest, biggest "crew" in the Thomas (Three Finger Brown) Luchese family--the very same underworld unit which in the mid-'50s had a game plan of its own for grabbing control of much of American labor.

Had the Luchese family succeeded it would have combined a multi-million-dollar industrial, trucking, land developing, commercial, entertainment, real estate, nightclub and hotel and motel and recketeering ((shylocking, hijacking, etc.) empire with inestimable union power.

For this is the family which Johnny "Dio" Dioguardi, to whom Hoffa once offered any job in the Teamsters he wished, and his boss, Tony "Ducks" Corallo, would have headed if they had not been imprisoned. They had hoped and planned to make the Teamsters Brotherhood-- through an alliance with Hoffa--the base of their reach for labor power. For years Jimmy and Johnny were intimate associates socially and professionally.

But back to the trailer--which was not, as has been reported, the summit headquarters of the metropolitan area's five bloody Mafia groups-- but the payoff and planning center of Vario who was and may still be on his way to the summit as boss of bosses.

During the night of April 1 or 2, several trusted New York City police jimmied open the 14-foot-high steel and barbed wire fence around the now-famous Canarsie junkyard.

These cops had covered most of their plain clother with pads--which ran up and down their feet, legs, chest, hands, and helped protect their faces as well. Thus they prepared to meet the two savagely trained German shepherd watchdogs. The animals attacked ferociously. The police wrestled with the beasts, subdued them with tranquilizer- injected meat, and slipped into the trailer.

This can now be reported. Then they put the Micro-sync-25 electronic "bug" into a ceiling opening and slipped out past the sleeping dogs.

For six and a half months, Brooklyn District Attorney Eugene Gold and his racket squad and the truly redoubtable Capt. John Nevins, commander of these racket bureau police, listened to 1.6 million feet of eavesdropping tape of conversations within the trailer.

There were 45 cops involved. These men turned a corner in world police work--the story never leaked. Not to the Mafia or the media. Thus the 677 caught in the dragnet were surprised.

There are crooked cops involved. Some of them have taken bribes as high as $25,000. There will be a series of arrests.

But the story is that the name of Paul Vario, the Luchese family's toughest cappo, was unknown-- and he was taking his orders from Johnny Dio's acid tongue. The Luchese boss was and is Carmine (Mr. Gribbs) Tramunti, who has been exposed in this column for almost 10 years.

Tramunti and Vario were in an interlocking network of legitimate and crooked businesses. The trailer headquarter's electronic and telephone tapes reveal that some of the men who came to do business with Vario talked of murder, cracking heads, breaking arms -- making a "hit" to keep discipline.

But it does romanticize the fantastic development-- which will shake the Mafia, send its people scurrying abroad--to accept reports that the heads of the five crime families visited the junkyard. If any of the Colombo family came, he was insignificant. And none came of the stature of boss of Bosses Carlo Gambino.

This was the Luchese trailer--and from it ran corrupt lines. The late Three Finger Brown had his hand deep in national and municipal politics. He once planted his own Mafioso in the office of the U. S. Attorney for the Southern District of New York--and made at least one police commissioner.

He was succeeded by the pallid Tramunti only after others had been eliminated by the Federals. He dominated the powerful and notorious Laborers' Local 13 which made millions from construction at the 1964 World's Fair (Queens).

The 62-year-old Tramunti has a long record of 15 arrests and 6 convictions -- and always a buddy and a onetime bodyguard of Johnny Dio, the extortioner now in a Federal penitentiary.

Tramunti and Dio also reached across the nation. They had the protection of the truly aged Don Michele Moranda, allegedly the most respected member of the underworld's nine-man National Commission.

So Tramunti might have gone far, inside legitimate business, commerce and labor, had he not been caught up in the junkyard--on omen of his future.

Nixon Signs Revenue Bill In Philadelphia Ceremony

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon flew to Philadelphia today to sign a revolutionary $30.2 billion revenuesharing bill in the nation's birthplace.

The chief executive left the White House South Lawn by helicopter at 11:21 a.m. EDT for the ceremony to place into effect the legislation he proposed two years ago.

Meanwhile, in Philadelphia before Nixon left Washington, 18 antiwar protesters were arrested as they set up an early protest of Nixon's planned visit. The demonstrators had gathered Thursay night and those arrested refused to move their demonstration into a designated area.

The measure, pushed through in the final days of the 92nd Congress, is a cornerstone in Nixon's proposed "new-federalism program," which he says aims to return some of the power, responsibilities and revenue from the federal government to the people.

For the occasion, the President chose Independence Hall, the spot where the founding fathers drew up the Constitution.

The White House invited some 200 guests—governors, mayors and congressmen who helped make revenue sharing a reality—and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who was a scheduled speaker.

Under the new law, the government will pump up to $6.4 billion annually over the next five years to states, cities and communities.

The funds can be spent, virtually without restriction, for high-priority projects such as welfare and social services, public safety and public transportation, health and environmental cleanup.

The allocation for 1972 is $5.3 billion.

The Treasury Department said the first checks, retroactive payments for the first six months of this year, will be mailed out in the first week of December providing an early Christmas present for some 38,000 localities. They will get final payments on this year's revenue sharing sometime early in 1973.

Under the program, funds are allocated one-third to states, two-thirds to subordinate governments. The amount each locality gets is based on a complicated formula involving population, its tax-raising effort and need, as measured by percapita income.

Hearnes At Bill Signing

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes was in Philadelphia today to participate in ceremonies marking President Nixon's signing of the federal revenue sharing bill.

Hearnes, a Democrat, and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, a Republican, were picked to represent the nation's governors. Both were early advocates of revenue sharing.

Under the bill, Missouri state government will receive $33 million and cities and counties will get $65.8 million.

Cooperation between the two major political parties helped to bring about revenue sharing, Hearnes said in a statement prepared for the noon ceremoney.

"My first real involvment with revenue sharing came in 1965, at the National Governor's Conference," Hearnes said. "I joined Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney, who then was governor of Michigan, in co-sponsoring the first significant resolution on revenue sharing every adopted by the nation's governors.

"A Democrat and a Republican, the two of us looked at this topic not as a partisan matter — but as a tool of government which had the potential to help our respective states.

"That resolution we co-sponsored, by the way, was entitled 'Preserving the People's Rights.' I am pleased to see that many more Democrats and Republicans — mayors, governors and congressmen — have joined hands with the same goal in mind.

The proclamations noted that 700,000 Missourians have served in the nation's armed forces.

Trial Date Set For Nonsupport Case In Benton

BENTON — Trial of Kirby Holt on nonsupport charges was set for Nov. 24 in Circuit Court Tuesday by Judge Marshall Craig.

Tial was also set for Nov. 24 for Louis Stidham in another nonsupport case.

Case was dismissed on motion of plaintiff Lee Foehand, who had brought suit against Universal Life Insurance Co. to recover medical expenses.

Trial was set for Nov. 30 of a suit by John Deere Company of Delaware against Holmer True and Joe True. The suit charges they failed to pay a promissory note of $1,523.07 to John Deere Company.

Arrest 3

Police today announced three arrests.

James F. Rodgers, 296 Jaycee, was charged with driving while intoxicated and no city sticker. Murtle M. Jones, 302 Heath, was cited for careless and imprudent driving, and Dorothy Burton, 118 Cardinal Drive, for peace disturbance and trespassing.

Thieu- Kissinger May Be Discussing Cease-Fire Move

SAIGON (AP)— Henry A. Kissinger and President Nguyen Van Thieu conferred for nearly four hours today amid reports that a partial cease- fire was being discussed.

It was the third meeting in two days between President Nixon's chief foreign policy adviser and the leader of the Saigon government.

There was no immediate word on Kissinger's next move, but some sources indicated he would remain in Saigon at least through Saturday and most likely would see Thieu again.

Kissinger was accompanied to the meeting today by U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, Deputy Ambassador Charles S. Whitehouse and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U.S. Army chief of staff.

South Vietnamese sources who reported that a cease-fire proposal was figuring in the talks said it probably called for only a partial truce as a "good will" gesture that could lead to further agreements.

"It is impossible to have any cease- fire that could be enforced, even by international body," said one South Vietnamese official. "It might mean an end to bombing and mining of the North and perhaps an exchange of prisoners, but it would be impossible to guarantee any kind of a cease- fire in the South where the fighting is going on."

The chief stumbling block to a cease- fire agreement has been Thieu's rejection of the Communist condition that he resign and give way to a three- faction coalition government including the Communists.

There has been widespread speculation that Kissinger is trying to persuade Thieu to step down, and the South Vietnamese information ministry in a communique Thursday said the president had renewed his vow "never to accept" a coalition regime.

A number of Thieu's political opponents refused an invitation to meet with him Thursday night to discuss the current status of the peace effort.

"Many of us feel that Thieu is trying to create a myth about opposition to a tripartite government proposal," said one political foe of the president. "We feel he is only pretending to ask for opinions to strengthen his position. We are not willing to be used for such propaganda, so we have refused to meet with him."

The State Department disclosed Thursday night that a veteran of the Paris peace talks and of the U.S. Embassy in Saigon, Philip A. Habib, arrived in Saigon on Wednesday to consult with Kissinger. Now ambassador to South Korea, he was a member of the U.S. team in Paris from the start of the talks in 1968 until 1971.

Box Stolen

The case of Shelby Wayne Moore of Bloomfield, who is charged with careless and imprudent driving and causing an accident, was continued, by agreement, to Nov. 16.

Timothy Lee Adams, charged with careless and imprudent driving, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and court costs.

Robert A. Harris of Puxico pleaded guilty to the charge of no operator's license and was fined $10 and court costs.

Preliminary hearing for Rickey Mitchell, charged with nonsupport, was settled by agreement and he paid court costs of $24.50.

Charles Ray England, charged with careless and imprudent driving, pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $25 and court costs.

Tom Bates and Jack Crawford both pleaded guilty to the charge of hunting out of season and paid fines of $5 each and court costs.

Charles D. Langston of Dexter, charged with careless and imprudent driving, was found guilty and paid a fine of $15 and court costs.

Emerson E. Tucker pleaded guilty to the charge of careless and imprudent driving and was fined $12 and court costs.

Fined for speeding were: Homer Dodson of Parma, $13; Glenda Joyce Lane, $11; Edgar M. Woollums of Malden, $15; Frank Wayne McSweeney of St. Louis, $15; Jerry Wyatt of Cahokia, Ill., $14; Sidney Sullivan of Springfield, $21; Ann Zimmerman, $12; Phil DeLong, $11; George A. Morvis, $12; David L. Hampton, $13; Donald R. Hall, $13; Millard J. Dillard, $11; Clarence Dale Smith, $13; Billy Joe French, $14; and Robert A. Clark, $14.

Station Robbed

BLOOMFIELD — The Standard service station on Highway 25 in Bloomfield was robbed Thursday night at approximately at 9:30 p.m. Steve Underwood, an attendant, said three men took $95 from the cash register and fled in an old white car.

Two of the men took the money while Underwood was diverted by the third man in the grease room.

Stoddard County sheriff's department is investigating.

The owner of the station is Melvin Williams.

One Arrest

EAST PRAIRIE-- One arrest was reported Thursday by the police department.

Freddie Organ of East Prairie was fined $20 this morning on a charge of public intoxication.

MU Receives Grant For Medical Students

COLUMBIA— The University of Missouri-Columbia School of Medicine has received special project grants totaling more than $200,000 to expand training of medical students in family medical care.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare last week announced 19 grants to U.S. medical schools.

The Comprehensive Health Manpower Training Act of 1971 authorized grants to schools of medicine and osteopathy to enable medical students to receive part of their education under a preceptor in family practice, pediatrics or internal medicine, in rural and other areas of deficient in medical services.

Under the direction of Dr. A. Sherwood Baker, chairman of the department of community health and medical practice at UMC, all third and fourth year medical students serve a four- week preceptorship in a family practice setting. This program was established in Missouri in 1957.

About 100 practicing Missouri physicians, most in small communities, participate in this teaching and training program. Each student spends a month with a preceptor working in his office, making hospital rounds and house calls with him, and participating in the community life.

In addition to a $50,260 grant to the preceptorship program, UMC also received a special project grant for expansion of its family medicine training program.

Three grants were awarded in this category: $145,870 to the University of Missouri; $83,455 to the University of Minnesota; and $74,787 to Penn State.

Dr. Jack M. Colwill, director of the family medical care program at UMC, said these funds will allow additional faculty members to be recruited.

The program, currently in developmental phases, is the training ground for young physicians specializing in family medicine. Resident physicians specializing in internal medicine also participate in the program.

Established at the Medical Center last year, the program was expanded this fall to offer continuing care for families in the Columbia area. Around- the- clock medical care is offered on a fee- for- service basis.

"Grant funds will assist in rapidly enlarging the program which is geared to education of more primary care physicians for Missouri," Dr. Colwill said.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Albert Enderle

Enderle- Fodge

NEW HAMBURG — St. Lawrence Catholic Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Glenda Kay Fodge and Randy Albert Enderle Oct. 7 at 1 p.m.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Francis P. Donovan.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Fodge of Benton Route One. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Feliz Enderle of New Hamburg.

Mrs. Wallace Alden was soloist, accompanied by Karen Brucker on the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of ivory delustered satin and satin sheer. The empire waist and square collar were trimmed with Venice lace. The wide stripes of Venice lace formed the bells on the full sheer sleeves. The train of ivory delustered satin and satin sheer stripe was trimmed with Venice lace and was attached at the back by a large bow.

Her headpiece was a large bow of ivory satin accented with pearls. Attached was a three-tiered veil of silk illusion.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, accented with red rose buds, green leaves with streamers of love knots and a tiny red rosebud attached to each knot.

Miss Rita Fodge, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of red velvet. The high neckline and short, puffed sleeves were trimmed with white lace. Her hairpiece consisted of two white roses with red rosebuds and tied with white, satin ribbons, forming long streamers with red rose buds tied to each one. She carried a long-stemmed red rose tied with white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Donna Tippy, sister of the bride, and Miss Sharon Enderle, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. They wore dresses identical to the maid of honor.

Marty Steimle was best man. Randy Tippy, brother-in-law of the bride, and Glen Griffin were groomsmen. Ushers were Mike Fodge, brother of the bride, and Mike Dirnberger.

Mrs. Fodge chose for her daughter's wedding a blue and white, double-knit, street-length dress with a matching, dress-length vest.

The groom's mother wore a purple, double-knit, street-length dress with a co-ordinated dress-length vest. Both mothers wore corsages of white roses accented with red rosebuds.

Miss Cindy Enderle and Miss Beth King were in charge of the guest book.

A reception and dinner were held in the fellowship hall, followed by a dance.

The couple is making its home in New Hamburg, where the groom is engaged in farming with his father.

Ann Landers

Leave Fires To Fireman

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing this during my break at work. I'm a waitress. Several girls are standing around telling me to be sure and send this because they want to know your answer.

Here's the situation:

A large party comes in, ten or twelve people. The check is a big one-- drinks before dinner, and wine. A man whispers in my ear, "Give me the check." As I serve the coffee a second man pulls me aside and says, "I want the check." I tell him the other man asked first. He says, "Under no conditions should you give the check to him. I want it."

What am I supposed to do? I'm in trouble either way. I've tried dropping the check in the middle of the table but then they both get mad at me. So what's the answer?--- Torn Two Ways

Dear Torn: When a gentleman asks for the check at the beginning of the meal, that should settle it. Anyone who asks after that should be told, "I'm sorry, but the check has already been spoken for and I promised to respect that gentleman's wishes." If he argues, say, "Sorry but you'll have to take it up with the other gentleman."

Dear Ann Landers: I am a fireman who just returned from answering a call. I am tired, angry, and I hurt all over. I feel I must write to you now because one of my buddies is in the hospital with his teeth knocked out and his nose and jaw broken. Why? Because some stupid motorist got impatient and ran over the fire hose that was lying across the street.

If this doesn't make sense to you, let me explain. The sudden burst of pressure knocked the hose out of his hand and it hit him in the face. If you still don't get it, imagine holding a limp garden hose and someone suddenly turning it on--- and remember that the pressure of a fire hose is about 100 times more powerful than a garden hose. Now you know why my buddy is in the hospital.

Here are some rules for the average citizen to follow and I hope to God you will print them in your column. :

If you must follow a fire truck, stay at least 300 feet behind.

Never ask a fireman if you can help. The average person knows nothing about fire fighting. You can help best by staying out of the way.

Never run over a fire hose even if you are sure the water has been turned off.

Do not call the fire department to put out small fires of weeds, trash and little conflagrations that you can extinguish yourself. Such calls are as much a nuisance as false alarms.

When calling the fire department, keep calm and tell them what kind of fire it is so they'll know what to expect and whether to notify other fire fighters.

Teach your small children how to report a fire. Always have the phone number handy, by the telephone.

When your place of business is being inspected and you are told to make certain changes, don't think they are trying to hassle you. Spend the money and make the changes. It could be a matter of life and death.

Thanks a million, Ann. You've done your good deed for today.—— Weary and Beat

Dear Friend: And you've done yours. Thanks for writing and God bless you and your thousands of colleagues for risking your lives every day of the year for me and millions of other strangers.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism—— Hope And Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to this newspaper.

SeMo Enrolls 7,345

CAPE GIRARDEAU— Southeast Missouri State University reports a total enrollment of 7,345 for the fall semester.

Registrar Alton Bray said the figure includes those enrolled at the university on a part- time basis. He said the full- time equated enrollment (FTE) for the fall term is 6,580.

The FTE figure is arrived at by adding up the number of semester hours being taken by part- time students and dividing by nine for graduate students and 12 for undergraduate students. Nine semester hours is considered a full- load for graduate students and 12 a full- load for undergraduates.

Both "head count" and FTE figures for this fall are slightly lower this year than last. A year ago, the university's total enrollment was 7,554 and the FTE figure was 6,798.

The decline this fall is common around the state, according to several Southeast Missouri State officials who reported knowing of only one or two institutions which experienced a slight gain in enrollment.

U.S. Government Agency For Colorful Birth Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is sending millions of condoms in many colors to Asia and Africa in the expectation the unusual nature of the birth-control devices will spark new interest in their use.

Besides red, white and blue, the U.S. Agency for International Development is providing the prophylactics in black, green and pink in packages bearing a legend inviting the user to "embark on a new adventure."

Dr. R.T. Ravenholt, AID's director of the Office of Population, says the use of colored condoms is neither frivolous nor an attempt at being cute, but a serious attempt to promote birth control in the highpopulation areas of the world.

"While the pill remains the most powerful birth-control device available and one that will be used increasingly," Ravenholt said, "there are serious cultural and practical obstacles to its use."

These include rudimentary medical and distribution systems in some of the underdeveloped countries, he explained. Condoms, on the other hand, are easy to use and generally accepted by most societies.

AID has distributed the traditional gray condom for several years, but with only lackluster reception. So, when the colored variety came on the market during the summer the agency decided to run a test program.

American missions were sent supplies of the new prophylactics and Ravenholt reported the distribution in those countries brought an enthusiastic response.

He said a recent trip he made to the Orient showed foreign officials "much more interested in the colored condoms than the gray ones. You could see the interest in their faces," he said, "when they saw the many colors. The displays brought smiles and requests for some samples."

The "diffusion power of the new types is much more effective," he went on, "because they tend to relax old inhibitions in ways the other devices do not."

The cost to the U.S. government is $3.02 per gross, or about the same as for the old type, Ravenholt said. While the figures are incomplete, he estimated 14.4 million of the colored condoms have been purchased, with the totals to increase substantially in the future.

Top Assembly Of God Officer To Speak Here

The Rev. Thomas F. Zimmerman of Springfield, general superintendent of the Assemblies of God, will be guest speaker Sunday at the Annual Homecoming and Pastor's Seventh Anniversary services in First Assembly of God at 306 S. Kingshighway, according to the Rev. T.A. McDonough, pastor.

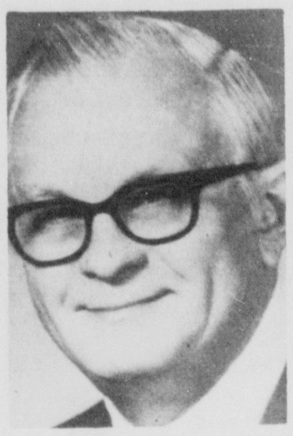
The Rev. Mr. Zimmerman has been top executive of the 8,799- church group since 1960. He is also chairman of the executive committee of Key 73, a transdenominational evangelism effort set for 1973 involving approximately 100 denominations.

The Rev. Mr. Zimmerman is currently leading the Assemblies of God in a five-year Plan of Advance, which began in 1969. The 1972 phase of the plan, called "Impact '72-- Be Filled with the Spirit" emphasizes the importance of the person and work of the Holy Spirit in individual and church life.

"A recognition of the ministry and manifestation of the Holy Spirit is vital if the Church is to fulfill its mission. It is not an option that the Church may reject or accept as it chooses," the Rev. Mr. Zimmerman believes.

The Assemblies of God executive began his ministry as an assistant pastor in Indianapolis, Ind. He later served pastorates in Illinois, Ohio and Missouri and held district administrative posts for several years before being elected to national office.

In addition to his work with the Assemblies of God, the Rev. Mr. Zimmerman is chairman of the advisory committee for the Pentecostal World Conference, which represents some 20 million Pentecostal believers around the world.



Rev. Thomas Zimmerman

The Conference meets triennially, with the next meeting scheduled for Seoul, Korea, in 1973. He is also an officer in the Pentecostal Fellowship of North America, as association of 20 Pentecostal groups in the United States and Canada.

He serves on executive and administrative boards of the National Associational of Evangelicals, and is first vice president of the National Religious Broadcasters Association. He is a member of the board of managers of the American Bible Society. He holds a doctor of divinity degree from Northwest College, Kirkland, Wash.

Bejeweled Breastplate

There were 12 precious stones in the jeweled breastplate worn by Aaron, the high priest of the Hebrews. In the New Testament, these stones became the foundation stones of the New Jerusalem described in Revelations. Each stone was identified with a prophet.

School Danger Cited

ST. LOUIS (AP) — There will be no Catholic schools by the late 1980's if enrollment continues to decline at the present rate, Bishop William E. McManus, chairman of the United State Catholic Conference, said here Wednesday night.

Every Catholic school should have by 1974 a task force of administrators, faculty, parents and students to plan curriculum improvements, Bishop McManus told a group of 3,000 teachers who attended a conference of St. Louis Archiocesan teachers.

Bishop McManus, who is the education director for the Chicago Archdiocese, said Catholic schools should impress on those who use them the value of Catholic education and parents should be directly involved in the educational process.

Sixty Witnesses Attend Convention

A delegation of 60 Sikeston area residents were among the 2,215 persons who attended a convention of Jehovah's Witnesses Oct. 14-15 at Flat River.

Russell Knauer, presiding minister of the Sikeston congregation said, "The convention was a success in that all in attendance received further aid to continue living Christian lives at a time when the world of mankind seems to be loosing its grips on moral restraint."

On Saturday of the convention, 61 delegates who had completed a prescribed Bible study course took advantage of the arrangement by offering themselves for baptism and will now join the ranks of more than one and a half million ministers already engaged in the door to door ministry of teaching people the Bible's message of hope.

The highlight of the program came Sunday at 2 p.m. when Henry C. Brewer of the world headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses presented the public discourse, "Is This Life All There Is?"

Brewer stated, "The frantic search for pleasure and attempt at 'living life to the full' reveals that most persons believe there is little hope to extend life eternally. Yet the Bible gives convincing evidence of the nearness of the time when faithful mankind will begin to grow to perfection under the rule of God's Kingdom by Christ Jesus."

Sikeston Jehovah's Witnesses meet in the Kingdom Hall on David Road located on Route Two.

Revival Services Start Monday At Matthews Church

MATTHEWS — Revival services will begin Monday night and continue through Sunday at First Baptist Church.

Services will start at 7:30 each night with Elder Jim Ford of Blytheville, Ark., as evangelist. Special singing each night will include a performance on Thursday by the Crownsmen Quartet of Blytheville.

Elder Gerald Presley is host pastor.

Program To Mark Wren Anniversary

FULTON, Mo. (AP) — The 340th anniversary of the birth of Sir Christopher Wren will be observed here in his church of St. Mary, Aldermanbury, Saturday with a concert by pupils from 12 Missouri high schools.

A feature of the evening program, which will follow a daylong choral workshop, will be the premiere of a special arrangement of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Peter was the only apostle to whom Christ appeared on the day of the resurrection.

EXPLOITATION OF PERSONS: RACE RELATIONS

Several years ago the white churches of America were shaken by the "Black Manifesto," a document first delivered to the National Black Economic Development Conference in Detroit in 1969.

The reactions among the Christian churches and Jewish synagogues varied from outright support for this message to outright opposition. Some churches split over support for the demands.

With a call for a half billion dollars from the white churches, the Black leaders probably stirred more discussion about race relations than at any time in our nation's history.

Race relations have created disagreements for centuries. The topic now is discussed more openly than ever before.

The Jews and the Samaritans had race problems although they too worshiped the same God and observed similar religious teachings. Yet, the Jews looked upon the Samaritans as a mixed race of people, not pure "Hebrew."

In reviewing today's lesson we must recognize the fact that the central realities of the gospel concern these points:

1. God's love for all men.
2. Christ's universal mission of redemption and compassionate service.
3. The worth and dignity of all persons.
4. The needs of persons in their human situation.

At times it is difficult to love one's neighbor or to love one of a different race. It demands service, sacrifice and suffering. Still, the Christian cannot play favorites. In other words, "show no partiality as you hold the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ."

The Supreme Court in 1954 called for a major adjustment in this nation's racial problems. Social legislation followed in areas other than education.

Churches followed suit in many areas, merging Black and white groups on many levels. Black bishops were assigned to predominantly white groups. Efforts were made to remove the "second-class citizens"label from the minority groups.

The segregation in reverse appeared with the Manifesto. Many blacks called for their own dormitories on college campuses. Others took pride in the Afro hair style. Special courses were urged for Black historical and literary studies.

The racial revolution involves other areas such as slum housing, price markings in ghetto supermarkets, treatment of Indian Americans and Mexican Americans, and job discrimination.

Changes can be achieved through institutions, political parties, social clubs and welfare agencies. The Christian must acknowledge the inherent worth of all persons.

The Black Manifesto was viewed by some white ministers as extortion while affirming the "Christian principle of restitution for wrongs done to others."

All church leaders rejected racism and violence, as well as separatism, yet viewed the Manifesto as "violating all recognized principles of democratic procedures."

The General Board of the Christian Church said: "It contains an ideology we cannot accept, a methodology we cannot approve, and a language we feel is excessive and inflammatory."

The Blacks said their demands were negotiable. They asked for money to aid Black farmers, to establish their own printing and publishing plants and audio-visual networks, research and training centers, and other projects.

The place to start in the racial revolution is with one's own attitude toward people of other areas.

Christians must do as Jesus advised the lawyer, "Love your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength and with all your mind; and your neighbor as yourself."

THE REV. BILLIE BUTLER stands before the United Pentecostal Church at 338 Matthews St. which he founded and has pastored since the summer of 1951. Beginning tonight at 7:30, the Rev. Mr. Butler and the church will celebrate their 21st anniversary and homecoming with special services through Sunday.

Pentecostal Church And Pastor Celebrate 21st Year Tonight

The Rev. Billie Butler and the United Pentecostal Church at 338 Matthews St., which he founded in the summer of 1951, will jointly celebrate their 21st anniversary and homecoming with special services tonight through Sunday.

The anniversary service tonight at 7:30 will feature the singing of the Lanny Wolfe Trio of Gateway College of Evangelism in St. Louis and the Rev. Guy E. Roam of St. Louis, district superintendent of the United Pentecostal Church, as special speaker.

Homecoming observance will begin with a Saturday night service and continue until the Sunday evening service. The Saturday service at 7:30 p.m. will feature the Rev. Harold Hodge of Jackson, Tenn.

Sunday's services begin with Sunday School at 9:45 and morning worship at 10:45 a.m. An afternoon service at 2 p.m. will feature the singing of the Huey Long Trio of St. Louis.

The church started in 1951 with an eight- week tent meeting on the site where Russell's Bulldog Inn is now located. During that span, Sunday School attendance rose from 23 the first Sunday to 142 in the eighth week.

The congregation purchased a building and moved to its present site at the corner of Matthews and Warner Streets on Oct. 15, 1951 with 172 in attendance the first Sunday.

Payments on the building during the first three years were made by member-donated labor of chopping and picking cotton in a share-crop project on the E.P. Coleman farm near Matthews.

The present sanctuary was built in 1960, and just this year, the church has undergone an extensive remodeling and face- lifting project. Among the improvements are a brick front on the building, new paneling for the walls and red carpeting and red padded pews.

The Rev. Mr. Butler has remained as the only pastor, and has led the church through continued growth to Sunday School attendance records up to a present high of 352. He has baptized more than 500 and, during his 21-year tenure, several ministers have come out of the church and are pastoring other churches.

All four of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Butler's children have been born and raised in Sikeston, and one is now attending Gateway College of Evangelism in St. Louis.

The church has operated a bus since 1951 with Farrel Wilson serving as the present driver. Robert Griggs is the Sunday School superintendent, and Mrs. Judy Newberry directs the 30- member church choir.

Church Has Ministry For Deaf

POPLAR BLUFF — Lending a helping hand to others less fortunate is more than a motto for members of Second Baptist Church of Poplar Bluff.

The congregation has taken the "helping hand" motto literally — in their concerted effort to reach the deaf people of Southeast Missouri through sign language.

For more than a year and a half, church members have interpreted the worship services to deaf persons at their Sunday services, morning and evening.

Then, every fourth Sunday, the church places a special emphasis on the deaf services, featuring a fellowship dinner for them following the morning services, which now attract from a dozen to 30 deaf persons who come from throughout the Bootheel to "hear" the services.

Pastor Frank E. Breithaupt said the church has featured two classes weekly for the past year-and a-half to teach congregation members and interested persons the art of sign language which will enable them to communicate with their deaf friends.

The classes, which are open to the public, are held on Wednesdays at 1:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. and have drawn up to 30 persons at a time.

Presently the morning services are interpreted for the deaf by Bud Lawson, while the song services are interpreted by Mrs. Richard Johnson.

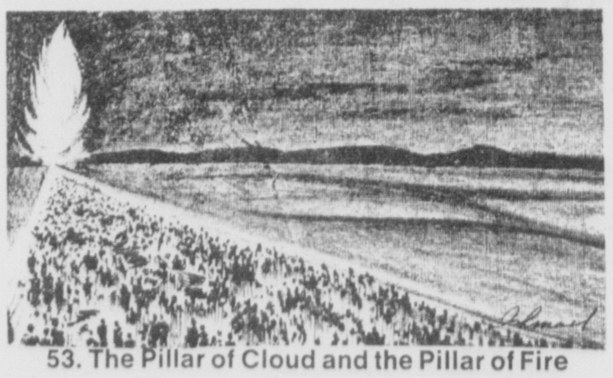
The POWER of FAITH By WOODI ISHMAEL



53. The Pillar of Cloud and the Pillar of Fire

After the last plague had killed all of the first-born of the Egyptians, Pharaoh relented and allowed Moses and the Israelites to leave Egypt. Many were reluctant to leave, for the Israelites had been held in bondage by the Egyptians for 430 years. Nevertheless, Moses led them through the wilderness, and they encamped by the Red Sea.

"And the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of cloud, to lead them the way; and by night in a pillar of fire, to give them light; to go by day and night: He took not away the pillar of the cloud by day, nor the pillar of fire by night, from before the people." Exodus 13:21-22

The Lord told Moses that He would harden Pharaoh's heart again so that Pharaoh would come to regret his decision to allow the children of Israel to leave Egypt. The Lord also told Moses that Pharaoh would gather his army and chariots to pursue the Israelites. And the Lord said, " . . . I will be honoured upon Pharaoh, and upon all his host; that the Egyptians may know that I am the Lord." Exodus 14:4

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Two-Fisted Policeman

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Hector's efforts at law and disorder weren't too successful. Convicted of grand larceny, he was also arrested any number of times for street brawling. Thwarted by the police at every turn, Hector finally decided that if he couldn't beat them he'd join them and filed an application to become a city cop. As it developed, the police department at that time was in serious need of more cops.

Consequently, Hector was hired on a one- month trial basis. Almost immediately, however, Hector bombed out. He stopped Mr. Peepers for speeding and when the latter gave him an argument, Hector hauled off and punched Peepers in the eye.

Taking a dim view of the assault, Mr. Peepers sued the city for a beauty of a shiner.

"Since hitting Mr. Peepers wasn't in Hector's line of duty, argued a municipal attorney, "the city can't be held liable."

"That's what you say," retorted Mr. Peepers. "The fact is the city hired an ex- criminal as a cop. How absurd can you get? If a city is going to do a stupid thing like that, then it should be held responsible for what the cop does whether it's in the line of duty or not."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the city liable for Hector's getting out of line?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a municipality may be held liable for negligence in hiring a police officer knowing that he was a street brawler with a criminal record.

The Jackson 5 Add Little Brother

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

We went to interview the Jackson 5 one morning and found six.

In addition to Jackie (whose name is Sigmund), Tito (whose name is Toriano), Jermaine, Marlon and Michael, who range in age from 21 to 13, there also was Randy, age 10, a player of bongo drums and sometime background singer.

Michael was wearing a tee shirt with "love" written on it. Jermaine says, "He wears them on every tour. It's his traveling shirt."

Michael has a solo album out on Motown, "Got To Be There." A single from it, "I Wanna Be Where you Are," is No. 8 on the July 8 best-selling list.

We ask him about singing love songs at his youngish age, and he says, "It's not odd for me to sing love songs because I know what I'm singing about." This brings laughs and snickers from his brothers. Jackie says, teasingly, "He gets really deeply involved." Michael defends himself, "There is no age limit to love."

The Jackson 5 has seven albums out, all of which have sold very well, and its singles have done well too. Many of them sell more than two million copies. Since the first single in January 1970, "I Want You Back," some of the big ones have been, "I'll Be There," "Never Can Say Goodby," "Rockin' Robin" and "Got To Be There." On the July 8 chart, the group's "Lookin' Through the Window" is No. 57 on the singles chart and the same title is No. 16 on the LP chart.

As the group talks, an adviser says, "I never saw you guys so quiet." They explain that they have just flown to New York and are still geared to Los Angeles time.

About Randy, Jackie says, "He has been dying to get in. He finally passed the test. He had to get his thing together first before he could join. He is okay now." He adds that the name of the group still is the Jackson 5.

Tito and Jermaine play guitar. Michael mostly and also Jermaine are lead singers. A couple of cousins play organ and drums.

Asked if they ever compare themselves with the Osmond Brothers, Michael says, "There is room for everybody." Jermaine says, "We just compare ourselves with ourselves. We just keep trying to improve."

Jackie says, "There's only one way to go and that is up. We don't think about going down, right, fellas? Right."

There also are three sisters in the family, Maureen, LaToya and Janet. Tito says, "Our baby sister wants in show business." "But no girls in the act," quickly adds Jermaine. "We'll give her a little boost some other way."

The group got its start in Gary, Ind., where the family lived until moving to California three years ago. Jackie says, "We were amateurs. Everybody had groups competing against each other. We won a talent show. The mayor of Gary had Diana Ross for a guest at a benefit show and he invited us to sing. She told us she'd take us to Motown.

MICHAEL JACKSON

"We sang the latest songs that were out, by the Temptations, the Miracles, the Supremes; whoever had a big tune on the charts, we'd sing it. We sang in Berry Gordy's office at Motown."

Marlon says, "When we were amateurs we played at the Apollo Theater a lot. We used to do five or six shows a day. We have spent Christmas at the Apollo." Jermaine says, "Back then, that was what we wanted to do." Jackie says, "We were just getting started so we were quite anxious. Back in '64 or '65 we started as amateurs."

Michael is only the first of the brothers to come out with a solo album. He says, "Jermaine is doing his thing. He's going to have a solo album. Everybody is going to have a solo album."

Tito says his will be more blues. Jackie says his will be mostly love songs. Marlon says, "Mine will be something like Michael's."

Right now the Jacksons enjoy motorcycles, except for Jackie who has a Camaro. Jermaine says, "I'll be getting a car soon, too. I don't know what kind."

Asked whether their father is strict with them, we hear both yes and no. Michael says, "We have a tutor that travels with us. When we're at home we go to regular school, private school. Our father travels with us and sees that everything goes right."

Jackie says, "We all have to do our chores around the house, like every other kid would do and we get out once in a while, but basically everything is like everybody else."

The group sang the theme song for the movie "Ben" and Michael has a rubber rat along with him on the tour. Jermaine says, "He brought Ben with him." There will be a movie made soon about the Jackson 5 and the way they live.

Everybody writes songs but none have been recorded yet. Michael says, "We're working on that. We will be recording it. But I'll take it easy on the Motown writers."

Do they fight? Marlon says, "Michael and Randy fight on the road. Randy is the only person Michael can mess around with that is his size."

Jackie says, "We just like to play. They're brotherly love fights."

COMMON DENOMINATORS

The little girl with the winning smile has something in common with millions of other kids all over the world. Her total wardrobe consists of the clothes she is wearing.

Common sense tells you that this shouldn't be; that no child should lack for clothes to sustain warmth, protection and peace of mind.

And, hopefully, common compassion will move you to contribute whatever clothing you can to the Catholic Relief Services' Thanksgiving Clothing Campaign, in progress during November.

The clothing you donate to your local Catholic church will be distributed to the needy, in more than 70 developing countries overseas.

Dismiss Inmate Damage Suit

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A $500,000 damage suit filed by a state prison inmate against Warden Harold R. Swenson was dismissed Thursday by a federal court jury.

An all-white jury heard the case of a black inmate, Fred Barber Jr., who also named guard Edward M. Sturtz as a defendant and accused Sturtz of being racially prejudiced.

Barber claimed Sturtz denied him medical treatment when Barber fell from a trash truck at the Renz Prison Farm last @ Mach 22.

An orthopedic surgeon testified Barber suffered no permanent injury from the fall, but Barber said his left knee still bothered him.

Swenson testified he did not know of the incident.

The case was the third heard by a jury. The suits of two other inmates were dismissed in jury trials lst week.

U.S. District Judge Fred J. Nichol of Sioux Falls, S.D., on special assignment to consider the prisoners' petitions, dismissed 40 of them without a trial.

The cases of Sonny Townes and Robert Emmet Burns — both of St. @ Lois — will be heard next week in jury trials. Townes claims he was beaten by a guard and seeks $500,000. Burns charges that he was harassed and manhandled by guards. He seeks $100,000.

child.

Capt. Hugh McCollum, commander of the Sikeston cadet squadron, went along on the mission. Although the boy was found by ground searchers, McCollum said that if the people on the ground had been able to accurately belate the location to be searched, the plane might have found the boy sooner.

The Civil Air Patrol is interested in recruiting boys and girls for the ages of 13 to 17 in the aerial program. An annual enlistment program is presented to students at Sikeston Junior High School.

Cadets receive military discipline and go through a leadership training program. The cadet program consists of seven courses in such subjects as orientation of airplanes, navigation, weather, airplane engines and power plants.

The cadet must also learn the rules in the Civil Air Regulation Book, which is comparable to the automobile rulebook studied for the driver's license test. At the end of the seven courses, a Cadet should be able to pass a written private pilot examination. With the passing of each course, the cadet receives a promotion in rank and upon graduation, is a second lieutenant.

A cadet may take private plane instructions and has the opportunity to attend several summer camps each year. Membership fees are $10.

Senior members of the Civil Air Patrol pay dues of $30 a year and donate their time and services to the cause. There are presently eight senior members of the organization.

Last weekend Hugh McCollum, Earl Cook, William Swann and Maurice Stauffer participated in a statewide search and rescue mission, a simulated mission held in cooperation with the civil defense department.

The state was divided into sections, with the headquarters for the Sikeston CAP in Sullivan. According to McCollum, the event was successful, even though it rained.

Members of the cadet squadron are Bruce Shaner, Clem Scheffer, Roy Sanderson, William Swann, Elizabeth Miller and Rick Hanna of Sikeston, Fritz Calhoun of Bell City, Kerry McWaters of Canalou and Ricky Whiffen of Matthews.

Senior members are Charles Cline, Cook, James Doster, McCollum, Swann, Stauffer and Fred Thorton of Sikeston and Charles Penman of Portageville.

Living Costs Jump In September

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living, led by higher prices for clothing, accelerated in September and pushed the rate of inflation to 3.5 per cent since President Nixon's Phase 2 price controls began, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said that the Consumer Price Index rose four-tenths of one per cent last month, with higher prices for clothing causing almost half of the increase. The price of gasoline and eggs also contributed heavily to the advance.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the rate of increase was five-tenths of one per cent, the highest since February, when the economy was going through a post-freeze bulge in the rate of inflation.

The bureau said the effects of clothing, gasoline and egg price increases were moderated by lower prices for beef, fresh fruits and vegetables and new cars.

Cape County Clerk Has Election Query

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — County clerks are required by law to publish election notices in two newspapers in the county-- in one paper supporting the Republicans and one supporting the Democrats.

But what happens if the county has two Republican newspapers and two independents, but none that support Democrats?

In that case, the attorney general's office said today in answer to A. J. Seier, prosecuting attorney of Cape Girardeau County, the county clerk can publish the notices in any paper he chooses.

State law says the notices must be published in two newspapers representing the views of the two major political parties "when there are two such newspapers" in the county, said the opinion by Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard L. Weiler.

"In our opinion, it is equally clear that the county clerk is under no duty to publish in any particular paper when the newspapers published in his county do not represent both of the two major political parties," Weiler said.

PTA Sponsors Open House

The high school Parent-Teachers Association, in cooperation with the high school faculty, is sponsoring the annual open house from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Monday at the high school.

The PTA has extended an invitation to parents in the district to meet and visit with the teachers to see some of the work done by students during the school year.

The first grading period ends Oct. 30. The open house will provide an opportunity for parents to make an appointment to talk with teachers at length about the progress being made by their children.

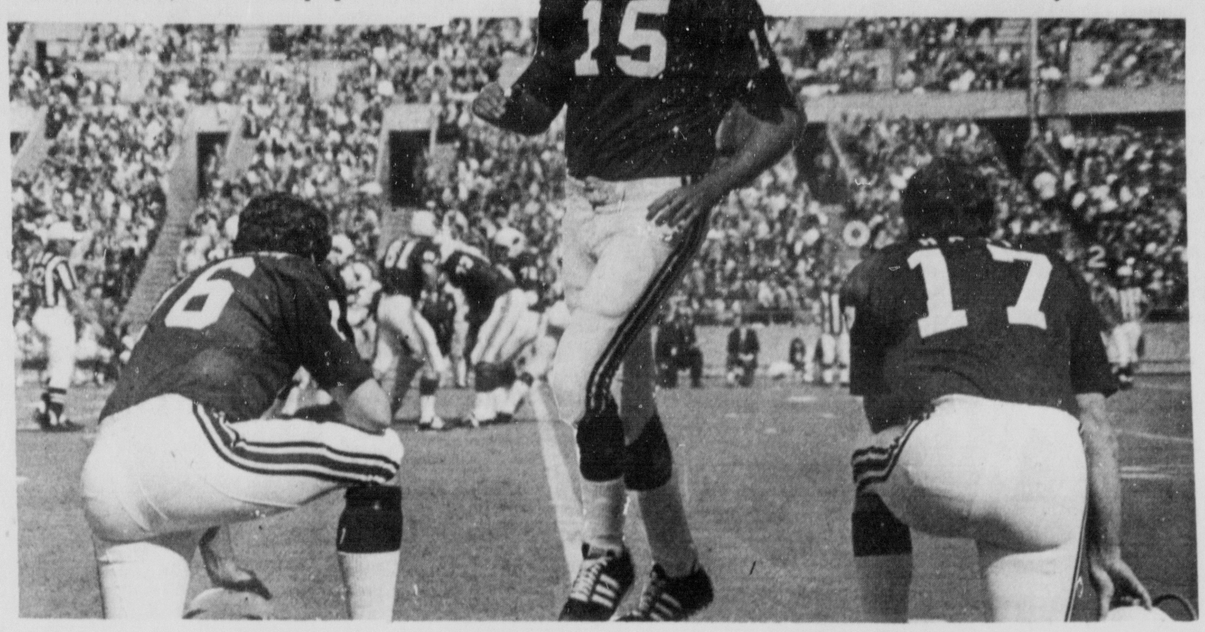
THE FOOTBALL CARDINALS have had a quarterback problem for two seasons, and the situation doesn't look any better even though three proven signal callers are vying for the number one spot. When the season opened Sept. 17, rookie Tim VanGalder (16) held the top spot over last season's number one QB, Jim Hart (17). But an injury sidelined VanGalder and veteran Gary Cuozzo (15) took over. The job now belongs to Cuozzo, but his performance of a week ago seemingly has opened up the top job again. The Big Red battle the New York Giants Sunday.



Tenace The Menace

OAKLAND (AP) — "Get a good pitch you can drive," said Oakland Manager Dick Williams. "Try to get the ball some place."

Pinch-hitter Angel Mangual got the pitch he wanted and put it in the right place—a single to right field that scored the winning run for the A's Thursday night.

The dramatic base hit through a drawn-in infield capped a two-run rally in the last of the ninth inning as Oakland beat the Cincinnati Reds 3-2 and took a solid 3-1 lead in the 1972 World Series.

"I prayed that the ball would go through," said Mangual after driving in Gene Tenace from third base with the winning run.

Three pinch-hitters came through for Williams in that emotion-charged ninth after the A's appeared to be finished.

Pedro Borbon, who had pitched in the eighth in relief of Cincinnati starter Don Gullett, was sitting on a 2-1 lead when the A's came up in the last inning. The Reds' right-hander got the first out of the inning, a harmless grounder by Mike Hegan.

Then Gonzalo Marquez hit for center fielder George Hendrick and singled up the middle, stirring the 49,410 partisan fans at the Oakland Coliseum.

When Borbon went to a 2-1 count on Tenace, Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson thought it was time for his best reliever, Clay Carroll.

Carroll threw one of his sinker balls to Tenace and the Oakland catcher hit it through the infield to left, just beyond the reach of shortstop Dave Concepcion for a single that sent pinch-runner Allan Lewis to second.

"He threw a good sinker to Tenace," said Anderson. "It was just a routine ground ball that got through."

Williams next called on Don Mincher to pinch-hit, telling the veteran first baseman:

"Go up swinging."

He did—and promptly brought the crowd to its feet with a single to right field that scored Lewis with the tying run.

Oakland pennants sprouted in the stands and wriggled furiously as the noise from the crowd became ear-splitting.

The stage was set for Mangual with runners on first and third and one out. He jumped on Carroll's first offering—a "fastball right over the plate"—and hit it to the right side of the infield. Second baseman Joe Morgan stretched for it, but it was a couple of feet beyond his reach. Tenace came in with the winning run to the wild cheers and an exploding scoreboard in center field. Fireworks went off as the Oakland catcher jumped on home plate and headed for a knot of happy teammates erupting from the dugout.

"The man upstairs has been good to me in this Series," said Tenace, who also hit a home run in the fifth inning to break a 20-inning Oakland scoring drought.

Tenace's third home run of the Series gave the A's a 1-0 lead off Cincinnati's Don Gullett. That small margin lasted until the Reds rallied for two runs in the eighth inning.

Dave Concepcion singled off starter Ken Holtzman and went to second on Julian Javier's sacrifice. A bouncer by Pete Rose moved Concepcion to third and at this juncture, Williams brought in Vida Blue to pitch to Joe Morgan.

It turned out to be a mistake. Morgan walked on a 3-2 count, then Bobby Tolan ripped a linedrive double into the right field corner to give the National League champions a 2-1 lead over the American league titlewinners.

That hit kept the hometown crowd subdued until the wild, ninth-inning finish. Rollie Fingers finished up and got his first World Series victory, providing the A's with the type of airtight pitching that has muffled Cincinnati's tough hitters.

The Reds, who rode to the National League flag on speed and brute power, didn't hit a home run in the first four games—all decided by one run.

Their usually-lethal first three batters—Rose, Morgan and Tolan—have collected a meager four hits in 44 appearances. And the Reds' top sluggers, Johnny Bench and Tony Perez, haven't hit a run nor driven in a run between them.

The A's tried to nail down the series with Jim "Catfish" Hunter against Cincinnati's Jim McGlothlin today.

Machine Has Flat

OAKLAND (AP) — Cincinnati's Big Red Machine has a flat.

Put into numbers, the malfunction reads 4-for-44. That was the collective batting effort of the first three men in Cincinnati's lineup for the first four games of the 1972 World Series.

Those first three men—Pete Rose, Joe Morgan and Bobby Tolan—have been dominated by Oakland pitching, and Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson says if they don't wake up today, it's all over.

"Oakland's just stopping them, that's what has happened," Anderson mumbled after the Reds' heartbreaking 3-2 loss to Oakland Thursday night.

"They've just stopped them cold. I just hope they don't stop them the next three (possible games).

"If we'd have won this one," Anderson said, "it would have been over in six games, no doubt about it.

"Now," he said, "if we don't shake ourselves, it'll be over in five."

Rose, the major league' leading hit-producer with 198 this season, has one hit in 15 World Series tries. Morgan is 0-for-13, and Toland is 3-for-16.

What makes things more frustrating is that power-hitters Johnny Bench and Tony Perez, who delighted all season in driving home the swift trio that populated the bases ahead of them, have been hot during the Series.

Bench is 5-for-14 and Perez is 7-for-14, yet the two incredibly, have no runs batted in and have scored only two runs themselves.

The Reds have no home runs in the four Series games, although Bench led the major leagues with 40 and Perez had 21 during the season.

"How long has it been?" Tolan asked after Thursday's game, "since you saw us go four games with just six runs? How long? Never!"

Tolan's frustrations typify those the Reds lineup has faced against the A's.

Jim McGlothlin, the littlepublicized right-hander assigned to face the A's this afternoon, sat at his locker, his jaw set.

"I just have to go out and try to get them," he said.

"It's like the last train in town. You miss it ... forget it."

MONTREAL (AP) — Jan Janssen and Gerald Koel of the Netherlands gave up and then recaptured the lead in Thursday's fourth day of the six-day bicycle race. Janssen and Koel yielded the lead in the afternoon to the Belgian pair of Norbert Seeuws and Julian Stevens but regained it in the afternoon.

The U. S. pair of Jackie Simes and Jan Van de Vel was in fourth place, three laps behind the leaders, with a point total of 386.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Don Brumfield tied Steve Brooks as Keeneland's all-time leading jockey by guiding Nalees Man to an easy victory Thursday in the $7,500 Jonabell purse.

Blue Will Start 6th

OAKLAND (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds have had a frustrating, confounding World Series so far and Oakland Athletics' pitcher Vida Blue must know how they feel.

"Vida Blue will start the sixth game," A's Manager Dick Williams said Thursday night, changing his mind about the 23year-old left-handed pitcher for the third time in a week.

"I hope the Series doesn't go to the sixth game," Williams added after the 3-2 victory over Cincinnati that gave the A's the opportunity to clinch baseball's world championship today in Game No. 5.

Blue came on in relief of starter Ken Holtzman, another left-hander, in the eighth inning Thursday night with the A's ahead 1-0. He walked the first batter he faced and then gave up a two-run double to Bobby Tolan.

"I'll take a chance on Vida Blue another time," said Williams before announcing his plan to start Blue in the game that might be played Saturday in Cincinnati.

Williams was going to start Blue in an American League playoff game, but decided not to. He then scheduled the southpaw to open World Series Game No. 4, but switched to Holtzman and said Blue would stay in the bullpen.

Rollie Fingers followed the ineffective Blue Thursday night and got the victory to go with the save he recorded in the second game. Holtzman was somewhat a forgotten man.

Williams switched to Blue after a conference on the mound with catcher Gene Tenace.

"Gene told him I was throwing just so-so," Holtzman said. "I didn't say anything. I guess it wasn't my turn to say anything."

Four ninth-inning singles, three of them by pinch hitters Gonzalo Marquez, Don Mincher and Angel Mangual, brought the A's back to life and saved Blue from taking a pitching loss.

Blue, baseball's hottest pitching property in 1971, was only 6-10 this year after getting off to a late start because of his spring contract holdout.

He was sensational in relief in the World Series opener, shutting out the Reds over four innings to save a victory for Holtzman. Then he made a mistake—with his mouth.

"We're handling the Reds easier than the Texas Rangers," he said, referring to the last place American League team he shut out on a pair of two-hitters this year.

Reds' manager Sparky Anderson, with his team one game away from a long winter, couldn't resist having some fun after Thursday night's loss.

COLD HARD CASH

A winter bonus from Reddy Kilowatt!

It's more than just a figure of speech. What you're paying for in winter heating could be colder than you think. Drafty doors and run-down furnaces mean Reddy has to work overtime to keep you warm all winter. You'll get the most service for his low wages if you:

+ check furnace filters for accumulated dust and lint
+ weatherstrip windows and doors
+ keep drapes drawn
+ stabilize your thermostat at one reading instead of putting it up and down.

And even after the snows melt, it's a good idea to:

+ replace worn faucet washers so hot water doesn't go down the drain
+ run washers and dryers on short cycles when possible
+ repair faulty appliances promptly
+ wait until the dishwasher's full to turn it on.

Reddy provides electricity, no matter what, but only you can make the savings!

Umps Balk

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has confirmed his office is investigating reports that the names, addresses and telephone numbers of 11 major league umpires were contained in a book seized in a recent raid on the home of a wellknown Baltimore area gambler.

Contacted at the World Series in Oakland Thursday, Kuhn told the Associated Press, "We know about it. We are looking into it. That is all I can say,".

The report in Thursday's Baltimore News American quoted a "confidential, reliable source," as saying the umpires were from both the American and National leagues and included "some of the best-known umpires in professional baseball."

The reporter, Richard Irwin of the newspaper's Baltimore County bureau, wrote, "It was not known immediately what connection the convicted gambler had with the umpires."

The story identified neither the subject of the raid nor the umpires and did not give the date and location of the raid.

SHS 48-6 Underdog

Tonight's nine-game high school football schedule is apparently the toughest of the campaign, if one can judge by the Daily Standard's panel of prognosticators.

Through the first six weeks of the season, at least four games were mutually agreed upon by the entire 11-member board, but this week the story is different.

Malden is the only unanimous choice of the weekly guessers to post a win over Chaffee. And the panel just about agreed upon the same results ... 28-0.

This part of the campaign is generally sparked by homecoming battles, which seemingly produce some upsets .... but only one mild one is predicted by this week's group of guessers. Perryville is a slim pick over the Kennett Indians ... 20-19.

Cape Girardeau Central and Illmo-Scott City put their six-game undefeated records on the line agains apparently easy foes ... But while the panel of guessers favored both, the old swami went against the grain and tagged the Sikeston Bulldogs and Hayti Indians as winners. The panel favors the Bengals by a 48-6 score, while I'll go with a 21-20 score for the Dogs. I-SC is a slender 28-20 favorite over Hayti, but I'll reverse the score.

Sports Corner By Ron Jaynes

Charleston is a 7-3-1 favorite to record its first win and keep rival East Prairie among the non-winners ... The score should read something like ... 20-7.

Jackson is a 10-1 pick to survive its challenge from Festus ... The Indians are shootting for a state 3A playoff berth and must win to stay in contention ... Although the Indians are favored ... it's only by six points.

Dexter is an underdog against the Poplar Bluff Mules, but the bearcats have always been known to charge back with an outstanding game after a rousing defeat ... The Mules are 7-4 picks and the outcome shouldn't be more than the three-point difference.

Coach Jim McKay's Portageville Bulldogs have been rolling along after an early season defeat at the hands of Dexter and are 10-1 favorites to keep Caruthersville among the winless .... 27-7.

Gideon will win its first game of the season, if the guessers' last guess is correct ... The Bulldogs battle Bootheel Division rival South Pemiscot and are 7-4 picks by an average score of 18-7.

This week's panel is made up of the old swami, Rovina Ralph, Eddie Smart, Ron Hornback, Steve Myers, John Greer, Danny Summerfield, Tony Ford, Jerry Gentry, Bobby Gentry and the myster guesser ... The shadow.

Join with us next week when we'll again try to call the shots for you.

Spotlighting Increases

GAINESVILLE — The thief who comes in the night isn't exactly a popular fellow, whether he's making off with the family silverware ... or illegally shooting a deer.

Spotlighters are the bane of a Missouri conservation agent's existence, but the day of the spotlighter may be on the wane if recent developments are any indication.

In Ozark County two men who killed a deer just at dusk,using a light-collecting scope and a high-power rifle, were caught and fined $500 each recently by Magistrate Judge Clyde Rogers who had passed down previous stiff sentences on illegal deer kill cases.

That size of fine in itself would make a jacklighter think twice, but even more of a deterrent was the activity among local landowners.

"The area where these two men killed the deer," says Ozark County conservation agent Bill Hailey, "Has some of the best bottom alfalfa fields in the county. That concentrates deer and it also attracts spotlighters.

"But the landowners are fed up with deer shining. They've had stock shot at and harrassed and they are through dilly-dallying.

So, when the two men were seen in the area, the landowners got on their party line and worked out a plan. They sealed off the road so the illegal hunters couldn't get their car out. Then they called Hailey who, along with Charles Coatney, manager of Caney Mountain Wildlife Refuge, searched for and finally found the men.

"This kind of landowner cooperation is vital if we're going to end spotlighting," Hailey said. "An agent just can't patrol all the likely areas in a county, even if he goes at it 24 hours a day.

"But when the landowners realize they lose stock and sleep and that spotlighters are cheating them and all honest citizens, then we see the tide turn."

Spotlighting is not peculiar to Missouri by any means. Michigan recently passed a law making all deer shining, either with or without weapons in the car illegal. Michigan estimates spotlighters take from 20,000 to 30,000 deer every year.

That's just about the average legal harvest in Missouri over the past 20 years. Michigan's new law makes it a violation to have a bow or firearm while using an artificial light between midnight and sunrise.

A Michigan conservation agent recently was run down and killed by two men spotlighting bears. The type of people who spotlight are also the type of people who run down conservation agents.

In Missouri, the law prohibits hunting wildlife with a light, except furbearers, such as raccoons when treed by dogs, and bullfrogs. It's illegal to use a light and have at the same time any kind of weapon in the car or even in a group of persons (so that one cannot use a light while another does the shooting).

Poachers Caught

UNION — The wrong place to commit a wildlife violation is in front of a man who has won international awards for his wildlife movies – and who has a telephoto lens and a camera with him.

It cost two men each $250 and court costs, plus a tough lecture from Franklin County Magistrate Judge Lawrence O. Davis to find that out.

Charles Schwartz, moviemaking for the Department of Conservation, his wife Elizabeth and fellow moviemaker Glenn Chambers were working on a Canada goose film on May 4, shooting scenes of cliff-nesting geese along the Missouri River near here.

The unique flock of geese nest high in the cliffs along the river and have been featured recently in stories all over the nation after the Schwartzes and Chambers documented the flock.

As Schwartz watched, three men in a boat made a run at one of the cliffnesters the film-makers had just photographed and one of the men shot it. Schwartz quickly put a long lense on his camera and filmed the men chasing a second goose, which they shot just as he ran out film.

That eyewitness and photographic evidence persuaded the men to plead guilty to the charge of shooting a goose out of season. G. Bernard Esser, assistant prosecuting attorney of Boone County, and a friend of the Schwartzes, took a day off to help them present the case.

When the story of the cliff-nesting geese appeared, it featured a picture of two of the birds on their lofty nest. Shots of the same two birds are in the Department of Conservation's newest movie, "Design for Conservation", and also probably will be i the Schwartz- Chambers goose movie.

Those are the two birds the illegal hunters shot.

Tours Begin

PUXICO-- The 25- mile auto tour will be open on Sunday afternoons during October and November again this year, according to Mingo Refuge Manager, Jerry Clawson. The tour is self- guides and starts at Refuge Headquarters one and a half miles north of Puxico on Highway 51.

A leaflet, which describes various points of interest along the route, is available at the start of the tour. The tour route follows the outside perimeter of famed Mingo Swamp and runs completely around the area ending on Highway 51, three miles north of Refuge Headquarters. It takes about two hours to complete the tour.

The tour offers an opportunity for a scenic drive and a chance to see wildlife at the same time. Fall colors are at their best during the last two weeks of October. Ducks and geese begin arriving in early October and reach peak numbers in late November. Deer and turkey are frequently seen, and occasionally a bobcat is sighted.

Refuge Manager Jerry Clawson suggested visitors bring binoculars and a camera and noted the best time to see wildlife was in the late afternoon.

The Mingo area is administered by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries & Wildlife, U.S. Department of Interior.
